the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 2000). The prevalence of mental health problems in the UK is estimated to be 10% (Mental Health Foundation 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (2000) has set out a strategy for mental health care, which aims to improve the lives of people with mental health problems and to reduce the burden of mental illness on society. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to promote the recovery of people with mental health problems; (2) to provide a range of services to meet the needs of people with mental health problems; and (3) to ensure that people with mental health problems are treated with respect and dignity.

The strategy is based on the following assumptions: (1) that people with mental health problems are individuals with unique experiences and needs; (2) that people with mental health problems are capable of recovery; (3) that people with mental health problems should be treated with respect and dignity; and (4) that people with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care and treatment. "Wheels Of Progress" Net Change Through Benefits Of 7 Period Day

Jams, Reeboks, mohawks, and more jammed the halls as more than 900 Kougars jostled through the opening day of school on August 25. Change was in the air as students searched for room 101 which was now 219 and the teachers lounge which was 219. The old computers had been replaced with new Apple II E's and the old yearbook room now housed the new teacher's lounge.

Fashion shows and crownings had to be rescheduled as patrons awaited the arrival of new theatre seats to fill the empty auditorium. New teacher's desks, paint jobs, and interior decorating in the cafeteria and the gym added a "touch of class" to the interior of the structure. Over it a $500,000 roof was placed which was guaranteed to stop leakage in the classroom.

Class reassignments and new faces brought a change to hall patrols and course offerings. With an increase in staff, seniors were offered an advanced chemistry class which was sure to help students like Karan Howard who planned to study pharmacology. Karan's concentration was aided by the seven period day which gave her the opportunity to take seven classes instead of six. This schedule allowed for a resource hour where students could gain extra help with their homework.

As the year unfolded, the physical changes warranted a change in attitude as staff and students alike fought for an academic competition. In October, speech-debate and academic competition clubs were born. Its first function was the state spelling contest at Indianapolis in November. The pace quickened as swimmers and runners captured invitations to state meets and journalists received an invitation to a national news conference.

The little old farm school was changing as suburbia took over the helm and sent it wheeling into 1987.

When Halloween's full moon is here, look out! It turns normal teachers such as Mr. McAttee, Mrs. Grass, Mr. Lodd, and Mrs. Hanley into a bookshelf, a squaw, a werewolf, and a pig.

Although changes took place in '87, one thing will never change—the disciplining hand of Mr. Post.

Lunchtime sometimes seems like a recruiting office for the armed forces. New recruits like Dee Dee Smith, Michelle Howard, and Tim Schaffer get an added touch of military life as they show the significance of camouflage.

"Less is more" was the trend in hairstyles spearheaded by senior Ron Belstra who led the students in a revolt against the long tail and replaced it with a mohawk.

Gleaming with pride is spell bowl captain Val Hoffman as he receives a congratulatory handshake and plaque for receiving second place at the state spell bowl competition.

Senior Karan Howard states, "Individual labwork is an important part of Advanced chemistry class." Karan makes sure all the particles in her mixture are dissolved before continuing her experiment.

Students Cry Rain, Rain Go Away At Homecoming

Changes were evident in this year's Homecoming festivities. A serious electrical storm put a damper on Friday night's game therefore making it impossible for the traditional activities to take place. On Saturday the skies cleared and the gridgers took to the field only to face a tenacious Bomber defense which prevented the Kougars team from scoring.

Sophomores took control of Spirit Week with an outstanding performance in the week's events. On Monday, students donned their hats and shades to get the action rolling. Although the Toma convocation on Tuesday prevented student participation in the Spirit Week celebrations, they showed their pride again on Wednesday by coming to school dressed in Hawaiian clothes. This was followed by Thursday's Hippy and Woodstock Day and finally Friday's Red and White Day. Also included in Friday's activities was a pep session attended by both the high school and the middle school.

On Thursday night the Seniors pulverized the Juniors, 34-0. Senior Lisa

McCarty had two touchdowns along with two interceptions. Tracy Brock also added two T.D.'s while Sherri Smith helped out by putting six points on the board for the Seniors. Jennifer Perry stated, "The team learned to work together to win." The Seniors were coached by Doug Greenlee & Tonya Price. The Juniors were under the direction of Al Hendon & Paula Wellmaker. Following the game the traditional bonfire was cancelled due to the weather.

This forced the teams to move their celebrations to Pizza King.

Due to the varsity postponement, the queen crowning was held in the cafeteria during the dance. After a brief procession through the cafeteria, 1985 queen Barb Myers had the distinct honor of crowning her younger sister, Kelly, the new queen. Moments afterward the court and the representatives from each class danced to "Words Get In the Way" by Miami Sound Machine which was played by D.J. TNT.

The court consisted of seniors Nicki Barger escorted by Chris Walstra, Tonia Parker assisted by Ron Belstra, and Amy Serhal escorted by Tim Lorenzen. The queen was escorted by Dave Brown. Junior representative, Tracey Hunter, selected Mike Liss as her escort. Sophomore Kim Huff was escorted by Todd Tilev and freshman Brenda Myers was escorted by Chad Jeffries.

Homecoming activities were sponsored by Student Council which was led by Mrs. Krejsa and Mrs. Price.

Sunshine Society Entertains 188; Silver Bells Enchant Winter Night

Sunshine Society's semi-formal dance was held on December 13. Red streamers, glittering stars, and poinsettias transformed the high school cafeteria into a winter wonderland highlighted by Silver Bells. A silver Christmas tree adorned with red and silver bells greeted the guests in the entryway.

Dancing to the beat of TNT's platters was the main activity of the evening. Simple, but tasty refreshments were served at the dance. Sunshine Society purchased a decorated sheet cake to go along with the punch and cookies. Tables were set up at the dance for those couples who might want to sit out a dance or chat with friends. Tables were covered with white tablecloths and decorated with streamers and poinsettias.

Pictures were taken by Lovasko Studio from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Memories of a moonlit evening were captured on film before a country scene featuring a deer standing beside a snowy path. Pictures ranged in price from $9 to $38.

Officers and sponsors felt that a change needed to be made concerning the eligibility of each sunshine girl attending the Christmas dance. In order to attend the dance, every girl had to earn eight points. Points were earned by attending meetings, selling cheese and sausage, going to the Halloween party, and decorating for the dance. Although the officers were very strict on these requirements, 94 couples attended the three hour activity. Many couples began the evening by traveling to near-by restaurants for a special dinner.

Plans for the dance were orchestrated by the club officers and sponsors, Mrs. Slaby and Mrs. Eckert. Chaperones for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Price, Mrs. Slaby, Mr. and Mrs. Eckert, and Mr. McEwan.

Romance is in the air for Juniors, Shaun Fitzpatrick and Pam Hurt, who had a great time during "Silver Bells." Pam's dress was one of many beautiful tea lengths purchased for the night at Susie's Casuals.

Grube reigns as Junior Miss '87 Poise, Personality, Promise

Poise, Personality, and Promise were the key words the judges looked for in the ten participants of Kankakee Valley's Junior Miss '87.

Junior Miss was held on October 25 and proved not to be a beauty contest, but a contest against one's self. The girls' grade point average, their creative and performing abilities, and their spirit towards Junior Miss were great factors in the judges' scoring.

The evening began with an introduction by each contestant, telling us her hobbies and future goals after graduation. The Creative and Performing Arts Division had such performances ranging from Marilyn Byrom's recitment of Shel Silverstein's "Sick", and Sally Strong using sign language to the song "The Greatest Love of All". The last division was the Fitness Division which tested the girls' endurance and coordination. They danced to the theme from "A Chorus Line", "Dance Electric", and "New Attitude".

Backstage the girls anxiously anticipated the results from the judges as the 1986 Junior Miss, Brenda Stalbaum, entertained the audience with her dance to "Bridge Over Troubled Water" and Mr. Pat Donnelly sang, "What A Difference You've Made in My Life", and "God Bless The U.S.A." A special slide presentation was shown to show how the girls' friendships began and grew throughout the weeks preparation for Junior Miss.

Finally, the great achievements were to be awarded. The following winners for their divisions were

Scholastic Achievement—Shelley Kaluf

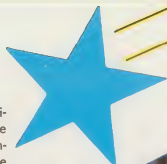

Spirit of Junior Miss—Sally Strong

Creative Arts—Carla Leach

Performing Arts—JoEllen Grube

Poise and Appearance—Starla Eeningburg

Fitness Award—JoEllen Grube

"Mmm, the frosting is the best part," thinks Sally Strong as she delightfully finishes the remains of her cake.

Marilyn Byrom tells the audience her illnesses in her recitment of Shel Silverstein's "Sick".

"Practice makes perfect" and all the practice has given Shelley Koluf's "Impromptu in A Minor" by Schubert perfection.

Junior Miss contestants forget about being nervous and are all smiles for the camera. Contestants are Bev Basgraaf, Sally Strang, Cathy Hoekstra, Ja Ellen Grube, Starla Eenigenburg, Shelley Koluf, Marilyn Byrom, and Brenda Stalbaum ('86 Jr. Miss).

Playing the piano is something Julie Henke has done for seven years. Here she plays Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata".

Life

"Hey, Ken (Greer)! We get out at 2:10. Isn't that great?" cries freshman Brian Morin as he heads to his locker prior to early dismissal due to snow on January 22.

Injury played a big factor on the cheerleading squad in '87. Junior Trina Parker was one of three cheerleaders sidelined by a knee injury.

After a vigorous workout for the Junior Miss contest, seniors Shelly Kaluf and Sally Strong rest on stage.

Senior Brett Huber and junior Candy Huber take first place in the Interact Halloween contest.

Although the sophomore year is a busy one, Mimi Hartley finds time between classes for small talk.

Spending time after school to make decorations for the Sunshine Dance are freshmen Terri Postma and Chor Systma.

Competitions Increase Value Of Education

Not to be outdone, outstanding science and industrial arts students were active on the JETS, Academic Decathlon, and Super Bowl teams.

On February 19, the 11 member JETS team placed 8th out of 14 teams at Purdue Calumet. Under the supervision of Mr. Bob Heid, the students prepared for specialized questions in English, Drafting, Math, Computer, Chemistry, Physics, and Biology.

An Academic Decathlon team was formed by Mr. Heid and Mrs. Crosby. The decathlon took place January 17, at Purdue Calumet. Sixteen teams competed from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Chris Allen stated, "I'm definitely going to do it again next year. It was fun, and I met a lot of new friends from other schools. I learned quite a bit from this experience." The students who competed were as follows: Honors I, Roby Atkins; Honors II Mike Mackiewicz; Honors alternate, Karen Howard; Scholastic III, Harry Brockus; Scholastic IV, Michele Smith; Scholastic alternate, Chris Allen; Varsity V, Kevin Whitaker, and Varsity VI, Cheri Stowers. Individual winners from the competition were Harry Brockus and Chris Allen. "I think that it is great that attention is finally being paid to academic accomplishments, instead of only being paid to athletic ones," commented Cheri Stowers.

A Super Bowl team participated in the first Hoosier Academic Super Bowl on April 23. Squads of three students had 20 seconds to answer 20 multiple choice questions. The science team under the direction of Mr. Heid, won the local competition in their division. Members were Roby Atkins, Harry Brockus, and Jim Belstra. The English team tied for first in their division, but lost the tie-breaker round. The English team under the direction of Mrs. Crosby consisted of Julie Tanis, Justin Steiner, and Kelly Kennedy. Other squads that competed were the social studies team of Justin Steiner, Harry Brockus, and John Price; the fine arts team of Ann Tackas, Chris Allen, and Shelley Kaluf; and the math team of Todd Ailes, Jim Belstra, and Shelley Kaluf. The all-around team consisted of Todd Ailes, Ann Tackas, and Julie Tanis.

Heid Encourages Academic Fever In Competition

If you could change one thing about our school, what would it be? This question was asked at the beginning of the 1986-87 school year and to the surprise of everyone the answer was to put more emphasis on academics.

Response to this question brought about many changes including a whole new academic competition club, included in this were the Spell Bowl team, Speech team, and World Affairs team.

Spell Bowl team consisted of 12 members. On November 15, they competed at the Hoosier Spell Bowl in Brownsburg, Indiana. It was here that the Kougars team placed 5th overall out of 26 state finalists and 3rd in their class. When the Spell Bowl first began there were over 400 teams, which showed how hard the Kougars Spellers practiced. The academic coach was Mrs. Dee Fritch and the captain was Val Hoffman.

Under the leadership of Mr. Mark Ladd, a speech team was also organized. A speech meet usually begins at 8 a.m. on a Saturday morning and ends at 3 or 4 p.m. There are three rounds of competition and at the end of the day ribbons are given to the top participants and trophies to the top teams. The six member team brought home their first trophy of speech competition in February, after placing tenth out of 16 schools. Individually, Robin Valade placed fourth in Prose competition, Paula Hershman placed ninth in Impromptu Speaking, Mat Kremke placed ninth in Broadcasting, and Sean McAttee received a first in Radio. Sue Postma and Robin Valade participated in the Poetry Reading competition. Although the Kougars Speakers attended only six meets. Mat Kremke stated, "Speech meets are a lot of fun to attend, but you must work very hard on your event to receive a ribbon."

World Affairs team attended a seminar in Monticello, Indiana on March 5. Nine students attended four sessions concerning "New Challenges for Men and Women in the International Workplace." Areas talked about were equal job opportunities for equal pay, changes in the workplace in the year 2000, and daycare services for women workers. This event was sponsored by Rotary Clubs and School Corporations in Northern Indiana.

Graduation '87: A New Beginning

Memories of yesterday and expectations of tomorrow filled Kankakee Valley Gymnasium on Sunday, May 31, as the 189 members of the 'Class of 87' joined together as one for a final time.

As "Pomp and Circumstance" streamed from the band, under the direction of Adam Brennan, the class entered two by two.

After the Invocation by Rev. David Sterk, the Salutatory Address was given by Jim Belstra. Jim's speech reflected the future and the plans that need to be made.

As Valedictorian Marianne Misch took the class on a walk down memory lane, each individual remembered his or her special moments in Kougaur Kountry. Things such as sectional victories, proms, and warm spring afternoons flashed through the mind.

Following Rev. Sterk's Baccalaureate Address the Senior Swing Choir members joined with the others for a final song, "That's what Friends are for".

Immediately following, the graduates lined single file as diplomas were presented by school board president, Mr. Gary Green, and Superintendent Mr. LeRoy Webdell. Mr. Webdell had the honor of "Presentation of the Graduates".

*I am not afraid of tomorrow
For I have seen yesterday
And I love today.*

The class wore red and black gowns and elected the red rose as their class flower. Sponsors were Mr. Bill Osburn and Mrs. Kristi Slaby.

Salutatorian, Jim Belstra and Valedictorian Marianne Misch lead the procession of graduates.

Graduation represents a personal triumph for Mike Griffith who put aside his handicap in order to complete English requirements for graduation. Mike is escorted by Larry Gifford.

After the conferring of diplomas, Junior Kristi Walstra gives Dave Betancourt a class rose which signifies the final moment from Graduation '87.

Corinna Meeks helps classmate Nicki Barger pin her cap in place before Graduation ceremony on May 31.

Getting into the Christmas Spirit Denny Urhammer, Debi Schlarp, and Tammy Pawlik gather around Mrs. Roberts Christmas tree.

Friends and

I'll be your friend and I'll be your lover
And we know in our hearts we agree
We don't have to be one or the other
Oh no
We could be both to each other.

As basketball manager, Harry Brockus is responsible for taping the games.

Memories Stir Mixed Emotions In Seniors Of '87

Dear Friends,

After searching through the copy blocks of several old yearbooks, I knew our copy had to be different. I realized there was nothing unique enough to even begin to describe the Class of '87. We have so much individuality among us, but we still have the want, need, and desires to bring us TOGETHER as one.

We have had some great times TOGETHER as a class, such as the Prom of 1986. Who would have dreamed we could transform our little gym into such a dreamland. In our minds that was and will always be the best Prom this school will ever see.

Even though we all have our own individual memories of the past twelve years, I'm sure almost all of us remember the time Duane Kamminga got his head caught in the piano after story-time, or how about the time Brett Huber and Brian Smith ran away from school, and JoEllen Grube cried because she thought it was all her fault.

Then we decided to grow up. In eighth grade we decided it was time to add zest to our so called "pep sessions". We put mini-skirts on Mike Mackiewicz and Brian Smith and let them lead the cheers.

Were we not the class to get into the most trouble? During locker decorations our freshman year, the strict rule was "NO PAINT ON THE LOCKERS". Who do you think was the first to bring out the brushes Those itty-bitty freshmen, that's who!

Then one steps back and looks at the glorious individual accomplishments which are forever stored in the hearts and minds of each and every senior. On Honors Night, May 29, applause are long and hearty for the top ten and the Presidential and Academic Scholars. On Graduation, May 31, sponsors Mr. Orsburn and Mrs. Slaby take a back seat as we make our final move.

Senioritis: The Senior Syndrome

What is the strange, unexplainable disease that affects each senior about six months before graduation? Technically termed, "SENIORITIS," it attacks the central nervous system of each senior. It has been known to affect homework, friendships, household chores and work. Its efforts have been known to be harmful if a diploma is not attained by the first week of June. If you have had any of the symptoms listed below, you may have contracted senioritis.

"I don't have senioritis." Kelly Krupa

"I can't wait to get out of school." Starla Eenigenburg

"You get home with a big stack of books, you don't want to do it and the grades show it." Skip Barrett

"Before now school was important, now I have nothing to come for." Shannon Kohlman

Summers Overseas Enlighten Christos On Heritage

Have you ever dreamed of traveling to a far away country for the summer? John and Clara Christos get that chance about every three or four years. They have been traveling to Greece since they were children. This helps them keep in touch with the family they have there, and it also helps them to learn the customs and traditions of the island on which their ancestors were raised.

The trip, from Chicago, takes nearly twelve hours by plane to get to Athens, the capital of Greece. From there the Christos travel another eight to ten hours to get to Karapathos, where they stay.

The island of Karapathos is not very large, with only four thousand year-round inhabitants. However, during the summer nearly eight thousand flock to this picturesque isle for three months of shopping, swimming, hiking, and enjoying all the soccer games one can take in.

The teenagers in Greece dress the same as teenagers here, and enjoy basically the same "junkfoods". The only major difference is that over there most of the teenagers own mopeds rather than cars.

What makes John and Clara want to go back? "You get to meet a variety of people from different places. The weather is wonderful and it never rains in the summer. There is also a lot to do and to see so you are never bored," exclaimed Clara, who has taken the trip five times.

Friendships which follow a visit to the island do not necessarily need to end with a return home. There are Karapathian organizations throughout the United States to reunite these new fele*.

Dances, picnics, and many other social events are held.

Class of '88 Creates Memories For 237 Kougars

From August 2-May 28, 237 students claimed the title "Juniors." Although the six letter word looked unimportant, it carried the weight of the world for the 180 day period, as the class of "88" created memories for a lifetime.

U.S. History and the last year of English were the only two required courses. For the first time students were allowed to fill the remaining five slots with electives. From five hours of science and math to five hours of fine arts, the junior year allowed for the diversity of personalities which comprise a class.

On December 6, Roby Atkins and John Wiggs accepted invitations to attend the Luger Symposium in Indianapolis. Throughout the day, the boys listened to lectures and discussed international issues including The Strategic Defense Initiative and the unrest in South Africa. According to John Wiggs, "The symposium invitation was an honor."

"Being a Junior means that it is now our time to rebel. The spotlight is on us, and we have to take advantage of the situation."

or." Indianapolis was the site of additional junior honors for Don Jarrell who participated in the All-State Choir, and Spell Bowl Captain Val Hoffman who led her team to a second place state finish.

A strong academic background was also important to Paula Falbo who was the editor of the high school newspaper, and Kelly Kennedy who spearheaded an outreach program for young journalists. Each week articles about KV appeared under the heading Kelly's Klassmates in the KV POST. "Irreplaceable" was the way Jim Bailey described his experiences as stage manager of both "Patchwork" and "The Wiz". In athletics, Mike Rhoades brought home honors from the mats and Tracey Hunter cheered her way to Captain of the Varsity Squad. Tracey was also elected Junior Class Homecoming Princess and Class Treasurer.

Quads Require Second Look In KVHS Classes

Born on June 21, Wheatfield's first set of quads have grown to be very different individuals.

Allan, Byron, Corey and Dale were born approximately 28 minutes apart. Named in the order they were born, the boys wore 14-carat gold identification bracelets until they were six months old.

Allan, the oldest of the quads, has enjoyed watching the Cosby Show and playing football. His other favorites included eating steak, the colors, black, red and white and listening to the heavy metal band Kiss. After graduation he wants to become a truck driver.

Byron, who likes snacking on pizza and watching Miami Vice, chose blue as his favorite color, and Bugs Bunny cartoons as his favorite pastime. Byron, who likes to listen to Alabama, chose diesel mechanics as a career.

Corey, the second to the last quad, chose the color blue as his favorite. Corey's other favorites included watching Growing Pains and munching on pizza. In retrospect Corey stated that he liked playing football. His future plans include joining the service.

Dale, the youngest quad, has enjoyed football, weight lifting and shop classes. He also enjoyed watching Cheers and Bugs Bunny cartoons. Pizza, the color red, and listening to AC/DC round out the final quad who wants to be a race car driver.

All the boys admit growing up with four identical siblings was fun, but hard. Their list of memories included Kindergarten where the boys used to trade T-shirts to confuse the teachers. Their mother's special memory happened when Dale was five years old. He was looking in the mirror and she asked him who he saw. His reply was "My brothers."

Kritz's Cats Collar Front Page In National Publication, Contests

To Sophomore Becky Kritz, mother-daughter projects are old hat. After 17 years of showing and breeding Persians and Exotic Shorthairs, the Kritz cattery numbers 13.

When asked how many awards she has received Becky stated, "Too many to mention." After seeing the walls of their den, which are literally covered with ribbons, the writer would have to agree. The outstanding awards are too unusual not to mention! They include Premier, Champion, and a Grand Champion. Becky has received a National award in the "Best of Color Tortoiseshell Exotic Shorthair" category, and "Best of Breed" in the "Red Tabby Exotic Shorthair" category. She has appeared on television in Pennsylvania. Her cats have also sat for professional photo sessions and appeared on the cover of a National Cat Magazine.

Class Of 1988 Chooses Trio To Lead Class

Wanting to do something different Scott Borsits was elected president of the junior class. Scott felt that the most important thing he learned from being an officer was "Don't mess up prom, or the seniors will hate you!" Besides being an officer, Scott was active in Interact and Pathfinders.

Secretary Marla Terborg has enjoyed organizing Prom. Marla was active in Sunshine, OEA, Drama, National Honor Society, and Pathfinders. She was also involved in the school musical.

Five year veteran Tracey Hunter functioned as class treasurer. She was the first to admit it was hard work. Besides being an officer Tracey was a member of Art Club, Student Council, Varsity Club, Pathfinders, Drama, Sunshine and Interact. Tracey was also captain of the Varsity Cheerleaders.

When you reach 16, the State of Indiana says you are eligible for a license and a work permit. The combination often leads juniors like Tim Burks and Mark Homier to an after school job. In their case, McDonald's in Renssealer gives them the needed funds for the insurance and luxuries which accompany driving privileges.

Class of '89 Achieves Success In Academic Contests; Athletics

S-P-I-R-I-T, spirit, spirit, spirit sets the sophomore class in motion as they strive for the coveted spirit stick. The catchy cheer also reflects the composition of the 222 member class. Throughout the year, the active students captured accolades in academic as well as athletic endeavors. In November, Paula Hershman won the Hugh O'Brien Scholarship after a close competitive interview with classmates Joy Stepanek and Justin Steiner. The newspaper heralded the prowess of Sandy Nemcek who took honors in volleyball and basketball.

Adapting to their new status was not difficult for sophomore Mark Shelhart, who stated, "I personally feel that being a Sophomore at KV means that we have the right to be up on the freshman and hang out with the upperclassmen." Hanging out is one of the exciting things about being a sophomore because many 16 year-olds attain their licenses and the freedom of wheels which allows them to 'hang out' in the DeMotte City Parking Lot or stay after school.

To Cindi Jefferson, being a sophomore meant, "You aren't going anywhere, but up." Increased requirements, academic classes, insect collections, and a 1600 page book report requirement were on the agenda for the college bound.

Change was in the air and the Class of '89 knew that achieving anything in life was a matter of personal desire. In September, Kim Huff, escorted by Todd Tiley represented her class on the Homecoming Court. Under the direction of sponsors Miss Jill Jenkins and Mrs. Kay Masten, the class officers managed to create an atmosphere of friendship. This led Dave Phillips to write, "Being a sophomore is a new experience and a chance to meet new people."

"Hey sophomores, what's cookin' cries Joy Stepanek. Joy is a member of Show Choristers, and she is active in Drama.

New Fashions Bring Out Beauty Through Modeling Experiences

The old program Queen for a Day came true for sophomores Stacie Jordan and Kimberly Huff who, after completing their modeling class at Sears Southlake Mall, went center stage.

Although modeling was a great experience where they met new people and had fun, the girls said that the life of a model is very hectic. According to Stacie and Kimberly, one must learn to be flexible and patient in order to survive the rigorous routines.

Different types of modeling included freeze, runway, and formal. Freeze modeling is where you act like a manikin, and move slowly. Runway modeling was learned for fashion show experiences. Informal, which was the most unique form, required each girl to walk up to a person and tell him/her a little about the outfit she was wearing.

Although the models do not get to keep the clothes they model, they could have purchased them at a discount. Stacie learned the essence of luxury one day when she was asked to model a fur coat. Although they both agreed that it was exciting, neither girl wanted to model for a career.

Reading the high school newspaper is an excellent means of information for sophomore Mike Hurst.

Sophomores Seek Enrichment Through Academics

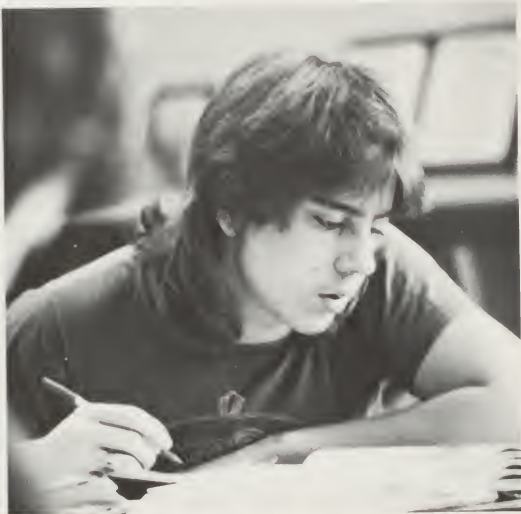

"Learning to listen and to compromise is one asset of being class officer," stated Sophomore class president Beth Byrom.

In her first year as an officer, secretary Atlanta Sutton wanted to learn to work with others.

A worthwhile experience led Secretary Rhonda Mabie to run for office. "I wanted to help lead my class in the right direction," stated Mabie. According to Rhonda the most important thing about school is "that everyone is friends with everyone else."

Assisting her fellow officers was Vice-President Brooke Hamstra whose seat on Student Council gave her experience in Homecoming, and the Lock In.

Concentration is the key to memorizing Antony's famous persuasive speech from William Shakespeare's JULIUS CAESAR. Sophomore Wade Brough makes notes as he begins the 35 line process.

Hugh O'Brien For Hershman

Paula Hershman was honored with the Hugh O'Brien award. This award was given to a sophomore who showed leadership and high academic achievement. Paula attended the week long Hugh O'Brien Leadership Seminar in the Spring. To earn this award, Paula used her speech training to dominate the interview category.

Paula also earned a place on the state spelling team and Mirage staff. She was active in Drama Club, Sunshine, Pathfinders, Computer Club, SADD, and the Speech club. Paula's year was well spent in academic competition. She also participated in the fall play "Patchwork".

According to Paula, she really enjoyed good speech meets because "You get to meet people who have a genuine interest in the plight of the world." After she graduates, Paula wants to attend Purdue and major in the field of education.

Freshmen Choose Seven Hours To Fulfill Increased Requirements

Freshman Phillip Dowell and David Kraft were just two of the 3,000 students who traveled to Rensselaer High School in September to hear David Toma's terrifying speech on the effects of drugs on the teen population.

No one had more changes than the Freshmen class. Without the safety of pods, they ran the hallways looking for that one room number. Suddenly, their worlds were turned upside down. Troy Walden stated it best when he said, "It was like an elevator going up and down."

Their feelings of anxiety were soon replaced with confidence. Although at times it was hard being the "little fry," it seemed that just a little while ago they were in eighth grade on top of the world. They had to start at the bottom again. As Deanna Terborg explained, "It was quite a change from my 8th grade year at DeMoote Christian."

The change of a new school system or grade status was not the only thing to which they had to adjust. They were the first Freshmen class to attend the seven hour school day. Although many things were changing for this 214 member class, they were able to adjust and fulfill some of their expectations. With this new found confidence, came leadership for the newcomers at K.V.

Celeste Susnis was one of the leaders. No one could guess that behind the delicate facade, there was a cross country star. She placed first in all but one meet. Celeste also received a first at Regionals and Sectionals. From Regionals and Sectionals, she went on to state competition where she captured second. Athletic ability wasn't the only way a freshman student could show his leadership qualities. Beauty and poise helped Brenda Myers when she represented her class on the Homecoming court. Sponsors for the freshman class were Mrs. Boise and Mrs. Miller. Class officers included Chad Jeffries as President, John Brown as Vice President, Brenda Myers as Secretary, and Amy Fagen as Treasurer.

Baseball Hits: Trading Hobby For Courtney

As the last cries of "Play Ball" fade into the stands in September, freshman Melvin Courtney packs up his baseball card collection and heads back to school. With a ready market of 20 or more traders Melvin quickly exchanges "losers" for "winners". A "winner" is a card that is worth more than he paid for it. Baseball cards cost an average of 2 1/2 cents per card when they are purchased in a 38¢ gum package. According to Melvin, no card is worth less than 4¢ on the market.

The value of a card is determined by the condition of the card and the success of the player. The most valuable card on the market is a 1910 Honous Wagner which sells for $35,000. Knowing that this card is beyond his grasp, Melvin has set his sights on Pete Rose's 1963 Rookie Year which sells for $550.

After one year of buying and trading cards, Melvin estimates his collection to contain 10,000 cards with a value of over $400. His most valuable card is the Atlanta Braves catcher Dale Murphy which sells for $45. This is a 2000% increase on his investment.

Throughout the week Melvin can be seen exchanging cards with classmates John Kolanowski and Bob Smith. He also spends time with Justin Sutton who can be credited with sparking Melvin's interest in the money making hobby. According to Melvin he spends about 15 hours a week working on cataloging and pricing his cards.

Vertical Walls Offer Challenge To Freestylers

Hitting a vertical ramp at 20 miles an hour may sound crazy to you but to Freshmen Jason DeYoung and Brian Fitzpatrick its heaven. BMX Freestyling is a competitive sport which require a great deal of balance, skill, and practice. Although not recognized by the IHSAA as a high school sport, Bryan and Jason practice daily on the 8 foot quarter pipe ramps in their yards.

Bryan and Jason know that the sport can be dangerous. Both boys have been injured. For Bryan this has included unconsciousness. According to Jason and Bryan they have scarred every part of their bodies. By practicing at home and uptown, they have learned to hop, spin and walk their bikes. On their ramps they do one handers and one footers for style.

Both Jason and Bryan hope to have careers in Freestyling. Bryan wants to be a fully sponsored Freestyler, while Jason wants to be factory sponsored (by Red Line), and live in California. Besides Freestyling both boys enjoy skateboarding, skiing and three wheeling.

Chad Jeffries served on Student Council as President for the Freshman class. He wanted to be an officer to lead his class. He said that he's learned self-respect.

John Brown was the Vice-President. Besides serving in Student Council he was active in basketball, football, and baseball.

Brenda Myers was the Treasurer. Her greatest experience as an officer was being able to plan things for certain occasions. She learned responsibility as an officer.

Amy Fagen served as Secretary. Besides Student Council, she was active in Sunshine, Interact, Pathfinders, Cheerleading, and Saddle. Her best experience as an officer was decorating lockers for spirit week. She thought being an officer was important, because it taught her leadership qualities.

The Agriculture Advisor

If you know how to determine a porter house from a t-bone or a first class meat from a diseased carcass, or that a mixture of loam, sand, silt, and clay are the best mixture for your soil and you know that FFA means, you must have taken a K.V. agriculture class.

Although Agriculture is the least talked about class, all of its fame went into the Club, Future Farmers of America. Ag classes were conducted by Mr. Inman who said, "Last year there were only a few changes in his department, I am happy with it just the way it was."

The only change that really happened was that the agriculture class were taught how to judge meats. This was very interesting to the students as many of them had wondered about how meats were judged. Reigning FFA Princess, Sue Postma stated, "The best part of agriculture class last year was when we learned how to judge meats, it added much excitement and fun to the class."

The main reason that agriculture class was the least talked about, was because many students think, that only future farmers took this class. In reality Agriculture was for everyone.

Agriculture I was a full year class designed for the first year agriculture student whether or not he/she had a farm background. Topics included, Future Farmers of America activities, arc and oxy-acetylene welding, and plant science (forestry, horticulture and crops.) An agriculture project on agribusiness, animal science or plant science was planned during the first semester. Other classes available were Vocational Agriculture II, III, & IV. Plans are on the drawing board for a horticulture class. The proposed class has been designed to be a full year on ornamental horticulture, which would include, landscaping, house plants, and greenhouse management, in which laboratory experiences will be combined with class room instruction.

If you want to be a farmer, or just broaden your horizons, Kankakee Valley's Agriculture Department is waiting for you. "Agriculture is the main blood supply of the heart of the world. The world must depend on the advances of Agriculture to survive," stated Inman. For more information, dial, FARM-ING.

Agriculture instructor Mr. Steve Inman demonstrates how farmers fill the winter hours with repairs. Mr Inman helped the boys rebuild a 1910 carriage for the '87 prom.

Junior Jeff Anderson uses his knowledge of degrees of stress in order to build a platform.

Junior Lindo Stumpe inspects a pig carcass as part of her assignment for agriculture's newest class project.

Freshman Kevin Misch gets ready to light up his torch in order to cut a piece of steel in agriculture.

Junior Jeff Fose puts formulas on the overhead projector in order to explain his knowledge of market reading.

THE ART ADVERTISER

Lucky number seven kept art teacher Mrs. Miller busy throughout the day as she shifted from fibers to photography, to wheel, to painting in the course of seven hours. In addition to a full class load, Mrs. Miller chaired the Fine Arts Department, ran the Art Club and assisted students in preparing for area art shows. In an effort to make computers a vital part of her program, Mrs. Miller was granted a $4,000 Indiana Arts Commission Grant.

Diversity was the key for the sole survivor of recent cut backs to the Art Program. Her day began with Drawing, which incorporated materials and techniques including a variety of lettering, perspective continuous lines, contour gesture, shadowing, figure drawing, still life, and landscaping. In fibers a consideration of the types of fibers and products in hand-spinning, weaving, macrame, basketry, rug latching/hooking, and related areas, including, yarn dying was studied. Ceramics brought to life the vocabulary of clay, basic hand building, wheel throwing, glazing, underglazing, and quick glazing of low fire clays. Paint making provided a means to reproduce a printed image several times. By making an image on a printing plate, inking the image and then pressing the plate onto paper or cloth, one could create a colorful design.

Repetition of images was just one area of concentration for photography students who learned to control a 35mm camera, develop a roll of film, and process photos. The required worksheets were minimal to the rich rewards gained from the class according to senior Nicole Scubelak who said, "Mrs. Miller was the key factor in my photography class, she not only made the history of photography interesting, she made the whole semester exciting. Composition and color were key factors in painting where students learned to blend colors instead of having a paint by number look about their work.

After three years behind the easel, wheel, or drawing pad, students chose independent studies where a person could explore his potential throughout the year. These advanced students were notified of awards and scholarships based on their work. For four year art major Ann Tackas the classes have meant a career choice. "Mrs. Miller has helped me decide on taking art as a major. She has opened doors for me that I thought could never be opened."

Whether it was ceramics, painting, or computer graphics; the Art Department was keeping pace with the world today. So, dial FINE-ART for a wonderful adventure in the world of art.

"Before you make a pot, you must condition the clay," states Sharon Waudema as she begins step one of ceramics.

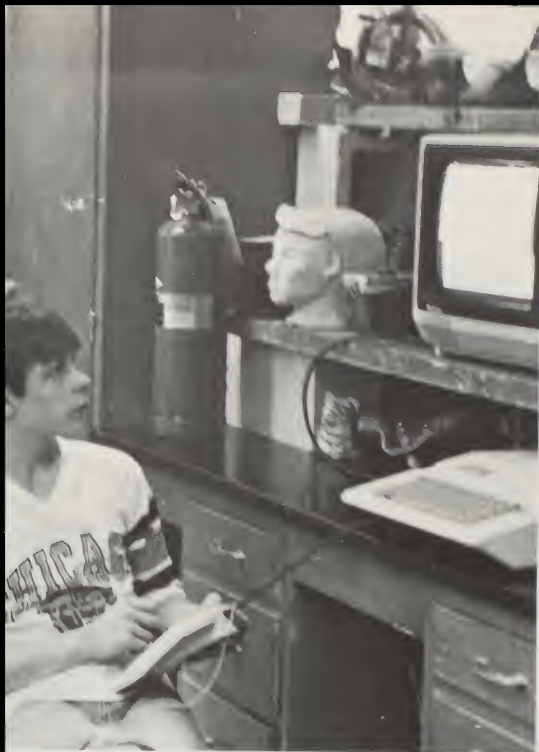

Senior Chelsea Spriggs finishes up her nine week drawing for advanced drawing class.

During his spare time, Senior Bruce Wilson likes to experiment with the new art computer.

Natural talent is displayed in Ann Takacs's "Image of a Japanese Woman." Throughout her senior year, Ann received notification of numerous art honors as she continues to develop her innate ability.

Left: Repetition of design is as important in art as transformers are in the life of Senior John Gudorf.

Originality, neatness and context helped seniors Mark Warren, Shannon Kohlman, and Ann Takacs acquire 2nd, 3rd, and 1st place awards respectively in the Jasper County Read-A-Thon poster contest.

The Business Bureaucrat

As we stroll down the Business hallway, we hear the typewriters tapping, the office procedure phones ringing, and the accounting pencils writing. These are the very positive sounds you will hear if you come to our place of enchantment.

Business comes in many different forms. We have Typing, General Business, Accounting and more. Now let's look at each class. First we find the simplest, General Business I and II. This class teaches students the basic problems with business and insurance. Each class is one semester long. Next on our memorable journey is Personal Typing, Typing I and II, and Typing III and IV. Here students learn to type letters, reports, and practice speed typing. Each of these classes is one semester. From there we move down the hall to Shorthand. Here the students, usually girls, learn to take dictation and write it down in shorthand. "Shorthand is like a different language" says Senior Sarah Myers. Next we visit the Accounting classes in which students learn the basics of Accounting I and II. They learn debits, credits, worksheets, and ledgers. Students may choose to expand their Accounting expertise by enrolling in Advanced Accounting. Another class is Business Law. In this class students learn about crimes, minors and the law, and law principles in general. In the Office Procedures Lab students who want to be secretaries learn how to work in the real business world.

With the business field becoming more popular, KV has to meet the needs of students who want to major in Business both in high school and in college. If you are one of these students, contact one of the business teachers or call BIZ-NESS.

Senior Lisa Hughes waits her turn to ask the guest speaker in Business Law a few questions.

Sophomore Kevin Fase feverishly types to get his assignment done before the time clock beeps. Kevin enjoys working with the new electric typewriters rather than the old manual ones.

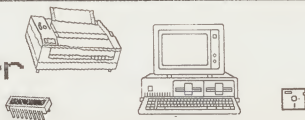

Senior Diane Wiers takes back the computer she used in her Intensive Office Lab class.

Being the first male to take Intensive Office Lab, Senior Jeff Woolever works to major in Accounting.

Student teacher Mrs. Stumpe teaches Accounting I students for 9 weeks in order to complete the requirements for her degree. The students enjoyed Mrs. Stumpe and many thought she did a great job.

The Computer Courier

If you know what (2000 for pause=1 to 1000: next pause) means, you must have taken computers. Since its inception in 1984, the computers class has had many ups and downs. It has had five different teachers: Mr. McAtee, Mr. Bolka, Miss Biemer, Mrs. Roberts, and Mr. Ladd, who have had five totally different ways of teaching. According to junior Shawn McAtee, "It has hurt some of the students." He said, "Trying to learn a new way of teaching is like teaching an old dog new tricks."

A whole new set of Apple IIe computers, monitors, and printers, computer literacy text books and work books, made teacher #5, Mr. Ladd excited about the Department's possibilities. In addition to text work, students also learned to work with the Program—"Appleworks". The final addition to the computer class was the Jack of all trades teacher, Mrs. Roberts, who not only taught a computer class, but also taught math and chaired the Math Department.

Change was also apparent in the students. At the beginning of the semester, they were there because they had to be and at the end of the semester, they found out just how much fun computers could be, and they wished the semester was not over. Two good examples of this were Juniors Laurie Odle and Angel Holloway. Laurie said, "Through computers I have learned just a small bit of the exciting world of computer technology. I really wish the semester did not have to end." Angels's point of view was a little different. "I thought that computers were just for geeks or nerds. But now I know that computers are for everyone. I really had a great time this past year."

As most people know, computers which are here to stay, will be the heart of tomorrow's world. By getting a head start and taking the computer class, you won't skip a beat in the fast paced world of tomorrow. So if you wish to take computers for next semester dial, COM-PUTE.

"Will it ever end?" asks junior Ron Oresik as he searches for the problem in his program.

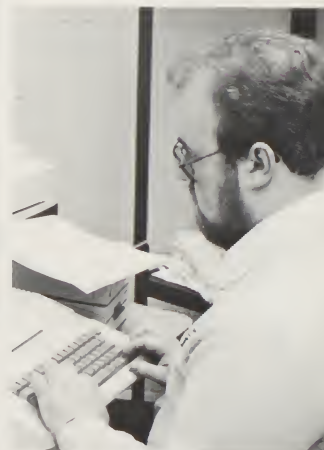

"Let's see 10 Run, 20 Go to 2 and if I keep repeating 'Run' my message will sing Do Re Me." states Jeff Pettet.

Happiness runs in a circular motion for sophomore Shoun Kostelnik who creates a loop on his computer. Watching a loop is a fun way to spend an hour in required computers.

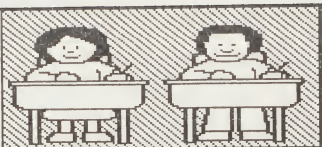

When classes are over, Mr. Ladd must prepare a program for the next unit.

Mr. Ladd helps sophomore Donno Gluth with her semester project. Each student had to include animation in the final project.

"Now where did Mr. Ladd say that delete key was?" questions junior Mike Maxey as he begins work on the Appleworks program.

The English Examiner

English is the oldest living language. K.V. is helping our country in teaching today's students the proper English language techniques. The English process transpires throughout the education process.

Freshman students learn the basics of English, grammar, and literature. Sophomores concentrate on diagraming, writing, and public speaking. First semester they learned the meaning of 300 vocabulary words. In literature they read into the life and death of Julius Caesar, and wrote creative short stories. Game shows and college entrance requirements were the interests of two special sets of students. In grammar, Juniors learned more grammar and sentence diagraming, they read the novel Huck Finn and did a research paper in literature. For the seniors, the English classes vary. They chose Advanced Composition, Speech, Novels, or Senior English. In Advanced Composition, the students wrote compositions, created newspapers, wrote research papers, read Macbeth and Hamlet, and got everyday writing assignments. In speech the students gave introduction, informative, persuasive, and demonstrative speeches. They did pantomimes, read poetry, did debates and group discussions, gave an impromptu, and for their final, a commercial was included. In Novels the reading list presented was A Tale of Two Cities, The Grapes of Wrath, Wuthering Heights, and The Good Earth. In Senior English the students developed their English talents in grammar and literature. With Advanced Composition, Speech, and Novels being semester classes, Seniors could take more than one if desired. "Semester classes make it easier to get a taste of more than one English class," said Senior Twila Rossmanith. To find out more about the English classes that are available at K.V. contact Mrs. Crosby, the Department Head, or call ENG-LISH.

Proofreading is an essential element of writing. Senior Kelly Smith awaits Michelle Warran's decision on his syntax.

"The hardest part of every essay is getting started," stated Junior Jim Bailey.

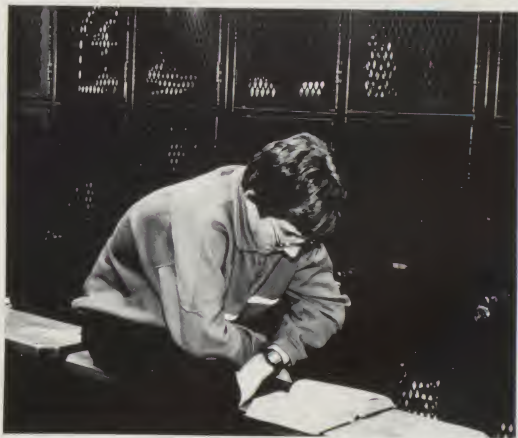

Junior Scott McAtee picks up the AV equipment for his English teacher.

Reading through their lines one last time, Juniors Joy Byrom and Jill Williamson prepare to perform their one act dialogue for junior English class.

Seniors Mat Kremke, Ann Tackacs, Jennifer Perry, Dee Bailey and Ryan Bult check over their computerized newspaper in Advanced Comp.

Kim Kerkes works on the required book report for her junior English class. Students also had to present their main character in a speech of introduction.

When you're an athlete, you must learn to utilize every moment of your time. For Sophomore Bryan Debshaw that includes studying for his grammar test before a wrestling meet.

The Foreign Language Forum

"Guten Tag Studenten! Ich heie Frau Masten" echoed from 221 as Mrs. Masten began her fourth year here at KV. From learning to count in German I to writing original essays in advanced study, the eight members of German III established a solid basis for their second language.

In addition to textbook knowledge, students attended the annual German Fest in South Bend. After an afternoon of heel slapping dance, German food, and song, the enlightened students returned to KV in spite of a blinding snow storm. "We saw 12 semis and 8 cars in a ditch. It was really touch and go," stated Mrs. Masten.

Throughout the year projects included bulletin boards, skits, fairy tales, oral reports, and geography lessons. In October the High School Newspaper printed copies of their original Dear Abby letters which included advice on parents and dates.

Another activity was the memorization of idiomatic expressions including "Wie Geht's" - how are you? "Was ist denn los?" - what's wrong? "Ich habe Schwein" which translates as I have a pig and means I am lucky, and "Sie nimmt ihn auf den Arm" which means she is pulling his arm which translates as she is teasing him.

If you take German hopefully you can say "Deutsch gefallt mir" I like German.

In the next room we find Mrs. Wiseman who has been instructing Espanol here for 15 years. "Hola! Hola! Buenos dias!" She says to students, "Mi casa es su casa." Make yourself at home in room 222.

With the first Spanish phrase learned "Como se llamo?" - what's your name? Students are on their way to having a future in Spanish. If you enroll in Spanish you would learn basic grammar and vocabulary as well as some culture of the Hispanic and Spanish people. You would learn to understand basic spoken Spanish and to repsond in Spanish. Like German, Espanol students learn idiomatic expressions such as "Querer es poder" - Where there's a will, there's a way and "La practica hace al maestro" - Practice makes perfect.

If interested in taking German or Spanish contact Mrs. Masten or Mrs. Wiseman or call FOR-EIGN.

Seniors Shelly Kaluf and John Cristos stick together when it comes to beating Juniors at Connect Four even if it is math whiz Van Malia.

Junior Mike Simpson and Seniors Dan Palmer and Jim Belstra translate their Espanol for a grade.

Junior Carla Hittle and Sophomore Scott Post stick together to help each other when it comes to tough assignments in German.

THE HOME-EC HERALD

Money is not the Home-Ec Department's only asset. Under the direction of Mrs. Jennifer Schroeder and Ms. Paula Wellmaker, the department curriculum has been renovated to include the basics of apartment survival.

Apartment living is easy when you learn the basics in Home-Ec. Four food classes teach you the importance of nutrition and diet. Even though the all male cooking teams constantly cry "Me, wear that apron!", "Ouch! This pan is hot!", "Where's my recipe?", they can rest assured that the knowledge gained in Foods is for a lifetime. You say you want to make your own clothes? How about Clothing I or II. You're planning a wedding in the near future? Enroll in Family Life to learn about planning a wedding. You want to design your own home? Take Housing. You claim you're ready to start a family? You need Family Living. You want to learn the fundamentals of sexual relationships? May we suggest Interpersonal Relationships? You say you have a family and you need to set up a budget? Enroll in Consumer Living. Take Family Health just in case a family member swallows poison or cuts himself. If wallhangings are your pleasure, go to Fibers to create your masterpiece. These are just a few suggestions we can make, as the changing needs of todays students create more classes. Stop by the KV Guidance Office to learn more about them, or call 2-HOME-EC so that you will be able to say, "I am ready for apartment survival!"

Senior Sally Strong works on the last few stitches for the pants that she is making in clothing class.

Sophomore Dawna Oliver carefully opens the oven door to see if her tasty morsels are done.

Seniors Denny Milliran, Sanya Wireman, and Lisa McCarty have their plates ready so they can dish up some of the delicious food that was prepared at the foods Christmas party.

Junior Susan Smith watches patiently as Teacher's Aid, Mrs. Arlene Jabaay opens the gift that she received at the foods Christmas party.

Sophomores Cindy Moline and Michelle McElfresh iron out the creases in a pair of jeans they made in Clothing I.

Seniors Julie Jones and Andrea Wireman busily set their table before their luscious food is finished.

The Industrial Art's Informer

Education begins with a flip of a switch. Knowledge and skills obtained through industrial art classes is an invaluable educational tool. What these students learn in class creates a future of opportunity.

"The skills that I have learned in Industrial Arts this past year are skills that will be with me for the rest of my life," stated Scott McDowell.

Classes offered at K.V. have many different types of teachers and addresses many different types of students. To start with there are Agriculture or FFA classes. In these classes you learn about farm management and production. Last year this class received a computer which has helped the students as well as the teacher Mr. Steve Inman.

"Mr. Inman has taught me much about Agriculture and how farmers feed the world. I really enjoyed his class," stated junior Michelle Profrock.

The next type of classes are welding and auto mechanics. In these classes you are taught by teacher Mr. Dave Jenkins. In Welding, students learn everything from a butt to cluster weld. In Auto Mechanics students are taught how to care for their cars. Last year Mr. Jenkins added a new class called Advanced Auto. This class ran sixth and seventh hours. In it students went into depth with an engine and how to solve troubleshooting problems.

The final type of classes that K.V. offered were Woods and Drafting. These classes were taught by Department Heads Mr. Ron Hine and Mr. Shawn McDowell. These classes teach the students all about drafting and wood textures. They also teach students all about career opportunities in these fields. Students from these classes have very positive attitudes and enjoy being in these classes. For example senior Jim Gilbert said, "Mr. McDowell is a fantastic teacher because he teaches us by showing and not by lecturing."

Industrial Arts at K.V. is much more than just a shop class. The teachers from these classes are creating molds of future leaders.

When the mold has set it will produce anything from a carpenter to an auto mechanic or even a farmer. Call IND-ARTS.

Senior Tim Shaffer checks the clutch bolt on his car so that he can take it off the rack and put it back on the road.

Department Head Mr. Hine exhibits his computer skills while he designs a new drawing for the drafting classes.

The Math Multiplier

$$5+6+3=14$$

$$90-53=37$$

$$2+2=4$$

A change of pace in the Math Department? Unheard of, well it's true. The Math Department had many changes including two new teachers and an academic team in Math.

The first new teacher was, Mr. Harold Hostetler. He received a B. A. from Ball State and MS from Purdue. He taught Geometry, Applied Math, and Algebra. Mr. Nagel was no stranger to our halls. He did all of his student teaching during his senior year at Kankakee Valley. He attended St. Joe's for four years and taught Applied Math, Introductory Algebra, and Algebra. Another change was the Math Department head, Mrs. Judy Roberts, a seven year veteran of the Math Department, took over the reigns from Mr. Abbring. The last addition in the Math Department was a group of young students, who formed the math academic decathlon team.

Although the team did not get into many contests this year, some did compete on the JETS team.

Although the changes were obvious, the feasibility of the changes came with the stability of the math program which offered a variety of courses to meet all age and ability levels: Applied Math I & II, Introductory Algebra I-IV, Algebra I & II, Plane Geometry, Algebra III & IV, Trigonometry, Analytic Geometry, Advanced Topics in Mathematics, and Career Math. After taking Algebra III & IV, Junior Dawn Jones said, "If I decide to go to college in the future, I can now have a better choice, as I will have a Math Major." Other students take math, because they like it. These students have a different view of math, like, Paula Hershman who said, "Geometry gives me a new angle on life." K.V.'s Mathematics Department is an up and rising field.

If you take the right roads, you will be on your start to a successful future, in math. The Math Department plans to keep up with education by increasing the power and making it Education.

If Math is your equation, dial, TAN-GENT.

Elementary math comes in handy for Sophomore Jack Deleeuw who was caught counting change in academic algebra.

"By the time you are a senior math concepts can brighten your life," according to Nicki Barger who tackles a trigonometry test in Mr. Orsburn's class.

Deep in thought is Freshman John Brown as he concentrates on his algebra test.

Junior Bruce Clark knows that a strong base in algebra makes the mathematical road easier. Therefore, he seeks the assistance of Mrs. Gross.

THE CHOIR CHRONICLE

Before you decide not to join Choir, take a look at the Concert Choir and the Show Choristers. The Choir room fits into the theme of changing with the new chairs and carpeting. The old metal folding chairs were replaced by new plastic posturedpedic chairs. According to Ms. Nagel the new chairs are lighter and easier to stack. In December, the Choir room and Ms. Nagel's office were carpeted. Singers had to adjust to the new acoustics. Ms. Nagel said, "It doesn't sound like we are singing in a garage anymore".

As you pass room 135 Ms. Nagel's evaluation rings clear at the melodious sounds of Concert Choir and Show Choristers fill the air. In choosing the choir for you, consider this.

A Concert Choir member likes large group singing; he likes a class that he is assured no homework. He likes the basic Soprano, Alto, & Bass songs. Concert Choir displays red & white robes.

On the other hand, a Show Chorister member, previously called Swing Choir, and The Singing Kougars, likes jazzy Soprano, Alto, Tenor, & Bass songs. He likes small group singing where one can feel comfortable. He likes to travel to such places as the Century Mall, Bon Appetite, and Indianapolis where they sang to large audiences.

In September members of the Show Choristers sang with the Manhattan Transfer in Bloomington. Show Choristers wore a tuxedo look with red suspenders. Some choir members were active in the all school musical and musicals at the Bridge-Vu Dinner Playhouse in Valparaiso. Students competed at ISSMA where there was a high level of musical competition. After 400 points were achieved, many choir members were awarded an honor jacket. Points were achieved by taking private singing lessons, piano lessons, special services, watching concerts or musicals, and attending a summer camp. One Show Chorister member, Don Jarrell, was accepted to All-State Choir in Indianapolis. Don also performed with Dave Arispe and Mat Kremke in West Side Story at the Bridge-Vu Dinner Playhouse.

No matter what group suits you stop by to ask Ms. Nagel for an audition, or call H.S.-CHOIR.

The Concert Choir sings, "There Is No Place Like Home For The Holidays."

New this year is a Madrigal Group. They are pictured here singing the Halleluia Chorus.

THE BAND BUGLE

There is no doubt about the band's roll in the changes at K.V. with things such as a new director, new uniforms for the Kougarettes, and a new attitude, K.V.'s band is on the road again.

In June Adam Brennan took over as the Band and Kougarette director. Mr. Brennan made history as the Kougarette's first male director.

Also new was a Color Guard team which invited all high school men along with the women to try out. The Color Guard did routines with fiberglass rifles.

New Kougarette uniforms followed a three year trend in change. Red satin mini skirts covered the team in 1984, black knickers hit the field last year, and black felt skirts adorned the girls in 1986. Kougarette's ousted their white ballerina slippers to make way for white boots. Always in the public eye, the Kougarette's needed to keep up with the fashions. Another reason for the change was to make them more lady-like because the mini skirts were too revealing.

Jazz Band, which reflects the tunes of today, made its way back into production. Mr. Brennan thought that a Jazz Band was essential for K.V. Marching Band was seen marching at football games, Basketball Band tooted during basketball games, and Symphonic Band hosted concerts and contests throughout the year.

Also back at K.V. was the Drum Majorette and Drum Major. These people were Robin Valade and Brad Christy respectively.

Summer Band Camp was held from August 4 to August 10. The Band performed on August 11 at the DeMotte Arts & Crafts Festival. Band Officers, President Don Jarrell, Vice President Kevin Black, Treasurer Ron Oresik, and Lisa Leach as the Secretary led the Royal Valley Brigade to musical ecstasy.

At the Fall Banquet Julie Jachimczak was awarded the most valuable Freshman, Kori Kros was the most valuable Sophomore, Leslie Street was the most valuable Junior, and Rick Sanders was named the most valued Senior. Tyrone Shepard won the award for best marcher and Kristen Holmes and Carla Leach took the outstanding Kougarette awards.

In November the Band Department sold Christmas items. They earned The Most Sales Award in Northwest Indiana. With the money earned from the sales, the band purchased new chimes and a timpani.

To learn more about the band and its changes, stop by room 137 or call 2-H.S.-BAND.

To get the perfect sound out of her flute, Junior Becky Kritz carefully reads her music.

Outstanding saphomore musician Kori Kros concentrates not only on her music, but the sound of the band in an effort to harmonize.

Although just a freshman, Tracy Brady knows how to make the right sound come out of her clarinet.

Senior Ken Sanders watches the direction of Mr. Brennan while junior Brad Cristy awaits his cue.

Mr. Brennan and Mr. Stepanek proudly accept the award for the most sales in Northwest Indiana in their fund-raiser from Salesman Jim King.

Marching Band

H.S. Band: Chris Allen, Matt Batey, Sherry Beoughter, Kevin Black, Tracy Brady, Jenny Lou Cotter, Brad Cristy, Jenny Daugherty, Jennifer Hancock, Mindy Hart, Bob Hastings, Ross Hieronimus, Julie Henke, Kim Henke, Julie Jachimczak, Don Jarrell, Jake Kennedy, Steve Kooy, Abe Kritz, Becky Kritz, Kari Kros, Craig Kozak, Hope Martin, Don Messman, Tom Nuest, Phyllis Oresik, Ron Oresik, Dave Phillips, Ken Sanders, Rick Sanders, Carl Scholl, Tara Seaton, Tyrone Shepard, Mark Shelhart, Galyn Smith, Robin Valade, Jeanette Walsh, Jenny Wells, Joy Stepanek is the pianist for Jazz Band.

The Kougarettes: Lisa Leach, Robin Rogyom, B.J. Brokus, Dawn Jones, Kristen Holmes, Leslie Street, Laurie Odle, Carla Leach, Karen Krupa, Mary Jo Lowry, Marcia Eenigenburg, Ken Leach, Deb Pardee, Chris Johnston, Michelle Proffrock, Shelli Scott.

THE P.E. POST

Proficiency which was the goal of the Physical Education Department was evidenced by Freshmen who experienced many new things including two new teachers, (Mr. Greenlee and Ms. Price), and the new floor sports of Hockey and Volleyball.

According to teacher Mark Watts, "The Physical Fitness Department has become more superior because, we all enjoy working together and promoting physical fitness".

Through classes like Weight Lifting and Aerobics, physical fitness teachers stress that Physical Education is for all students, not just Freshmen.

In Weight Lifting young men and women were taught how to acquire muscles without injuries. According to Senior David Brown, "Physical fitness is more than just sweat. It is mind and body coordination put together".

Most students take the one semester of Health in their Sophomore year. Coordination is the key to the required Health class. According to some students, who have had this class more than once, it seems to be more exacting each year. However, most teachers would say, "The harder the better". According to them it is valid that the Health class needs to be more difficult because the students have increased skills in first aid and knowledge of body care and fitness.

One of the most interesting projects performed in Health class is resuscitation Annie. Annie is a doll on which students learn to perform C.P.R. Another interesting project is when all the students get to watch a real open heart surgery on video cassette.

Some students think that Health is just another stupid class, but to others it is very beneficial. For example Freshman Gary Burns used first aid techniques from Health class to stop the bleeding when his hand was blown up by a pipe bomb in the summer of 1986. Who knows, by taking the Health class a student could save a life or decide to become a doctor, nurse, dentist, or even an x-ray technician.

Whether it is C.P.R., Floor Hockey or Weight Lifting, the teachers of K.V. are setting the pace for more exacting P.E. and Health courses in an environment which stresses, "The harder the better".

Senior Kevin DeYoung and Junior Rab Bierns do warm up laps during their life-saving class.

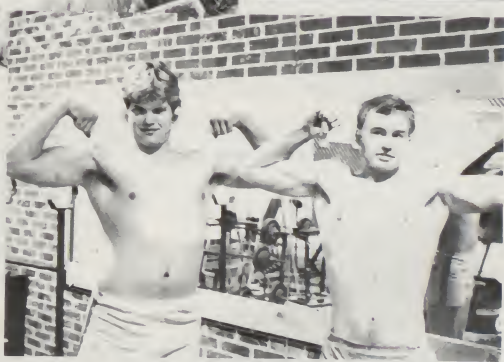

Mrs. Hinkle explains the fundamentals of her favorite sport, volleyball.

Freshman and Junior Sullivan work through the required routine for their P.E. class.

The Science Suveyor

If you knew that:

was the formula for TNT, then you must have taken Chemistry II in the summer of 86 or during the school year of 86-87.

A summer course of Chemistry II was just one of the new additions to the Science Department. Others were a semester course of Chemistry II, was offered to Seniors who wanted to continue in Chemistry after their first year. In this class the students went into greater detail in the field of Chemistry. "We take the basic principles of first year Chemistry and apply them and make them work in real-world situations, such as soap and esters." Stated, Rob Arnold.

They perform many experiments at the science fair, including making water rise and the effects of static electricity. Addition #2 was a new teacher, Steve Martin, who taught Chemistry I to Seniors, Juniors, and a few Sophomores. The final addition was a group of students called JETS, (Junior Engineering Technical Society). Members of this group were Todd Ailes, captain, Roby Atkins, Jim Belstra, Harry Brockus, Scott Hazlett, Julie Tanis, Karen Howard, Mike Mackiewicz, Michele Smith, Justin Steiner, and Julie Hessling. The group dealt with topics in engineering and took seven killer tests at the annual JETS competition at Purdue Calumet. In addition to Chemistry students studied Academic Biology I & II, Advanced Biology III & IV, General Biology I & II, Physical Science I & II, and Physics I & II.

Through the classes students learned about the chemical and physical make up of life. Senior Julie Hessling stated, "Chemistry III & IV has taught me the real complexity of the world in which we live." Sophomore Kerry Leach stated, "Through genetics I have learned about how life evolves and also, how people acquire the looks and traits that they have."

So, if you would like to be a chemical engineer or a nuclear physicist, the science classes are there to help you get onto the road of success. New formulas are always on the bunson burner. If you would like to find a the pot of gold at the end of research, dial SCI-ENCE.

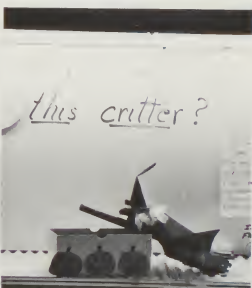

Making sure that his chemicals are the exact weight, junior Lenny Winstead checks the scale twice, so that he can continue his experiment.

Anxiously awaiting the final answer juniors, Becky Kriz and Julie Tanis look over the shoulder of junior B.J. Brockus as she finishes the lab report.

Trying to get the right answer, juniors, Lisa Webster and Lori Fagen work on their lab report for Chemistry.

Chemistry and Physics teacher Mr. Bob Heid closely watches a bridge from Physics class to see just how much weight it can handle.

Sophomores, Sean Kostelnik, John Mathis and Larry Duranleau represent the statistics which reflect that one positive attitude leads to another.

Above right: Kermit the witch gets her spotlight for a whole week, with many thanks to Biology teacher Mr. Steve Maple.

The Social Studier

Exciting lectures and important information. These are just two of the qualities of KV's Social Studies field. Many students choose to make Social Studies a part of their four year stay at KV. On a guided tour of this department you would see the world.

You say you want to learn about the world? Take World History. Here students learn about world affairs and the United State's involvement in foreign policy. World History students begin their study with heiroglyphics, study through the wars, then to the eighties and space exploration. You want to know about the United States?

Enrole in U.S. History. Here students begin their memorable study during the Civil War time period and continue through slavery to the joining of each state to the Union. Students also learn about the U.S.' involvement in the World Wars and in 1984 the Presidential election where for the first time a woman was asked to run for Vice President. You say you want to learn about the individual, the mind, and the law? Take Psychology. Go directly to Sociology if you want to learn the importance of belonging to a social group. If you are still interested in learning more about the world, let us suggest World Geography. Here students learn the locations of continents, countries, and cities. If you are interested in the economy what else is there, but Economics. For the Seniors there is Government. It is required, but many may find it quite interesting, especially those interested in becoming active in politics. Students learn all about the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Branches, all the roles of the President, and all about the Constitution. So if Social Studies is your major, contact the guidance office or call HIS-TORY for your placement in class.

One of the special projects in Mr. Hoover's U.S. History class is that of the current event television. Juniors Tammy Rawlik, Jim Kelley, and Tammy Chase entertain the class with news.

Senior Tony Kolp strives for 70% on his government homework. This magic number means passing and graduation.

Senior Clara Christos displays her Naders Rader's project to the Economics class. Clara's project dealt with the quality of ketchup.

Junior history students are humored by one of Mr. Hoover's National Guard comments.

Junior Ross Heironymous completes his chapter test in history.

Freshman Sammy Wireman reads the assigned chapter in World History.

The Special Needs News

Textbooks and trophies lined the walls of the Special Needs rooms. Throughout the years Special Needs teachers Mrs. Melton and Mr. Oliver have encouraged students to achieve.

When the traditional text book failed to make a point, the instructors utilized a hands on approach. Looking into the corner closet one could find a carburetor, a water pump, a pile of fake money, and a globe which helped the students visualize the concept.

When eight students arrive simultaneously with finals, Mr. Oliver requested the assistance of Special Needs Aide Mrs. Jabaay. According to the students a day does not go by that Mrs. Jabaay does not offer a pat on the back or a note of encouragement.

Moving down the hall your eyes are attached to colorful displays in room 205. Mrs. Melton who works with Freshmen and Sophomore students was constantly busy.

Her demanding schedule required the assistance of the newest member of the Department, Mrs. Strong who worked on a one to one basis with the students.

Special Needs reached to the Middle School where Mrs. Quigley made sure that any child with sight problems was adequately prepared for class.

Along with the academic part of the Special Needs class, the students also participated in the Special Olympics. One team represented K.V. at the Bowling Championship in Indianapolis. K.V.'s Special Athlete's have won State Championship honors in 1983, runner-up in 1984, and state champions in 1985. The bowling team consisted of Stephanie Banks, Barb Boring, Frank Golab, Rick Hargrove, Kelly Harmon, Donny Klemz, Donna Kupianen, Rene Lamier, Randy McCarty, Chuck Patterson, Rene Round Leslie Rucklos, Allen Smith, Donald Smith, Mike Spencer, Cherie Strain, Steve Wayne, Brian Wellons, and Jodi Wireman.

K.V. Special Olympic Bowlers received first place in their division 11 rating in the championship game. Each Bowler was awarded a gold medal and a State patch and the team received a State Championship plaque. Senior Brian Wellons has participated in all four of these championship teams.

Mr. Oliver, the Special Needs Teacher and Special Olympics Coach was selected to Coach at the 1987 Summer Olympic Games in August held at Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana. Mr. Oliver said he was chosen because of previous years of participation in athletics, his sports expertise, and his willingness to train and meet the goals of the Special athlete and the Olympic Games. Mr. Oliver was one of 35 people selected from Indiana chosen to be a coach. Mr. Oliver said, "It is voluntary as I will receive no monetary compensation for the coaching position. It is an honor to be chosen."

To find out more about the Special Needs group talk to Mr. Oliver or call SPE-CIAL for the news.

Band is an excellent way to move the heart and relieve the stress of the day according to sophomore Tom Nuest.

If you do not know the answer, ask Mrs. Jabaay. After more than six years of research as a special needs aide, she knows how to find the answers.

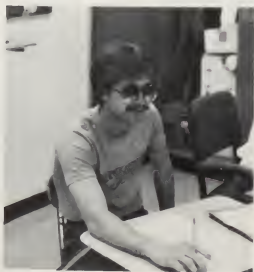

Center Left: Mr. Oliver discusses the relevancy of economics with Chris Morrison. In his class one on one instruction is vital to the academic success of his students.

Senior Mike Spencer works on a report for Mr. Oliver's individualized study program. Mrs. Melton and Mr. Oliver work closely in creating a positive outlook in Special Needs.

Dan Gorlund's smile is infectious. No matter whether Dan is in class, the cafeteria, or working with the janitors after school, Dan always finds a moment to smile.

Various members of Sunshine change the cafeteria into a ballroom for the annual Sunshine Christmas Dance.

Art Club members create projects from the mind

Computers set the stage for Silk Screen Art at the December 11 Winter Music Festival. With the use of "Computer-eyes", the Art Club members created discs that captured a person's face and could later be transferred to a poster or shirt.

Proving that the age old process of water colors is still a viable means of expression, Senior Ann Takacs was thrilled when her water color illustration took top honors at the Hoosier Motorist Poster Contest in February. At the state awards ceremony in Indianapolis, Ann was recognized for her "Share the same road." Ann believed in taking "Art to heart."

When it comes to characters, one can turn to Senior Mark Warren, who earned a full scholarship to the New York School of the Arts.

The motto "Success breeds success" is relevant to

"Art is for everyone and it should be appreciated in its many forms," Robin Hass—Art Club President sponsor Mrs. Miller who invited former Art Club member Rob Kolanowski, to make a presentation to the Art Club. The 1985 graduate showed art projects made by an air brush, and experimented with silk screen. In February, Ann and Mark joined Shannon Kohlman in the Reading Poster Contest.

"Only ten years ago, Kankakee Valley was one of the two high schools that offered photography in our area. Today, we are the only school, out of fourteen, that offers computer art and graphics," stated Miller.

The following students have the definite talent for art and have been noted as outstanding artists by Mrs. Miller: Ann Takacs, Mark Warren, Dave Bohannon, Ann Drangmeister, Jim Harrison, Buddy Hilton, Shannon Kohlman, Bruce Wilson, and Chelsea Spriggs.

Officers for Art Club were President Robin Hass and Vice-President Sonja Wireman.

Future Farmers Learn Through Trips; Contests

Learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live, living to serve, was the motto for the Kankakee Valley Future Farmers of America. Indiana FFA was formed in 1929. Our KV Chapter has a Charter number of 72.

Learning to do and doing to learn were experienced through the National Convention in Kansas City, Missouri. Bill Hartman, Susan Postma, and Linda Stumpe attended this event. They attended four sessions, the Agricultural Career Show, and the American Royal Rodeo, as part of the activities of the convention. Side trips included the Anheuser-Busch Brewery and the Gateway Arch.

On November 20, FFA members and guests attended the annual pork chop dinner and slave auction which netted $3475. Half the earnings went toward the Senior trip. The "slave" who sold for the highest amount was Freshman Mike Stowers, who broke the old record at $320.00 for one day of work.

On Friday, February 13, Sophomore Wendy Hamstra was crowned 1987 FFA Sweetheart Queen. Wendy said, "It was a big shock, but also a great honor." The crown-

"FFA is not just farming, it's leadership, friendship, and citizenship." Art Helton, President.

ing was held at halftime of the KV-Lake Station basketball game. Other candidates were Senior Starla Eeningenburg; Junior, Tammy Postma; and Freshman, Stephanie Hamstra. After the game, a dance was held in honor of the Sweetheart candidates. Each representative was judged on grades, agricultural background, interview, clubs, poise, and appearance.

Kankakee Valley FFA competed against eleven other schools in the District Leadership Contest on March 14. Brooke Hamstra and Susan Postma placed first in the scrapbook contest. Placing first in the Treasurer's book contest and third in Production Agricultural Demonstration contest was Linda Stumpe. Parliamentary Procedures team which consisted of Dale Blackridge, Kevin Fase, Doris Greathouse, Brooke Hamstra, Bill Hartman, David Krapf, Tim Kros, Dewayne Milbourn, Susan Postma, Melissa Raab, and Travis Rude, placed second.

FHA Participants Excel At State Convention

Future Homemakers of America has had quite a few exciting times with many memorable moments. Sponsor, Jennifer Schroeder received her five year sponsor's award at State convention and Junior, Kristi Meyers was named District I President for the 1987-88 school year.

In November FHA members and Home-Ec students sold cookbooks and kitchen utensils to raise money for State convention. Combining the club membership and classrooms educated the public on the benefits of FHA. Grandparent's Dinner and induction of officers also occurred in November. A candlelight ceremony inducted new officers who stated the eight purposes of FHA. Members and their grandparents enjoyed a ham and chicken dinner and played games to find out more about each other.

Fruit baskets were delivered to elderly and disabled people at Christmas time. Each member tried to spend a few minutes with the citizens and wish them a Happy New Year.

FHA Week was February 9-13. Members sold red and white carnations for distribution on Valentine's Day. They also held a "best legs" contest which was won by Senior, Dave Brown, who was awarded a plaque. Members also sold M & M's and Reese's pieces to raise money for Ronald McDonald House. A check was sent to them for $250.

March was filled with two new events. Members chose Ideal Homemaker's and sent them gifts throughout the year. They met at the Gather-play "Showboat."

State Convention was held April 9-11. Eight girls and two chaperones traveled to the Adam's Mark Hotel in Indianapolis for competition. Junior, Toni Whitaker, was KV's voting delegate. She voiced her opinion on officer placement. Friday each girl participated in a proficiency event. Medals and awards were handed out Saturday afternoon. Gold medals were received by Kristi Meyers and Michele Smith. Silver medals went to Jennifer Perry, Shelley Nowak, Starla Eenigenburg, and Kim Nowak. Bronze medals were earned by Carrie Greer and Toni Whitaker. Friday night Future Homemaker's of America members listened to a guest speaker who talked about the right mental attitude. In their spare time members went to Union Station, took a carriage ride around Indianapolis, or relaxed in the whirlpools.

Dues were $5.00 for State, National and local dues. Officers were President, Shelley Nowak; Vice-President, Toni Whitaker; Secretary, Tonia Parker; Treasurer, Kelly Jones; and Historian, Starla Eenigenburg. The club's 17 members lived up to the motto "Toward New Horizons." Members plan for the future and look for better ways to improve themselves and society, by taking Home-ec classes, family life classes, and participating in the Future Homemakers of America.

Hola/Tag

Club members say "Hello" to foreign lands.

When you live in the Heartland of America, you seldom get the opportunity to use the German and Spanish vocabulary you accumulate in class. In order to increase their opportunities Frau Masten and Senora Wiseman offered club activities to any student who has completed a year of either language.

These activities gave students a relaxed atmosphere where they could apply their classroom knowledge to every day activities. In Indiana, that meant visits from Spanish exchange students and trips to German Dance Programs. In this manner students learned that languages really can come alive even in the cornfields along the Kankakee.

Along with talking about present businesses of the club, Spanish Club meetings consisted of playing Spanish Scrabble, Spanish Bingo, reading Spanish books, and working on Word Finds. German students spent the half hour of club meetings, discussing finances, singing German songs and cheers, and testing their strategy by playing German Battleship.

During the year, the clubs got together for a night of fun. On April 27, the clubs joined for a pizza and Bowling party in DeMotte.

Spanish Clubs' 22 members were under the rule of President Sheila Dogson, Vice-President Chris Allen, Secretary Robin Valade, and Treasurer Julie Henke.

International

"The most successful"—International Weekend

The '86-'87 school year was more than just another year to the members of Interact. Interact made the most of the year with their community services along with providing educational help to students.

Interact had "outstanding student effort this year" as quoted by director Mr. Hughes. Effort was put into the yearly programs such as: The Big Brother/Big Sister Program, in which an Interact member worked with five eighth graders for six weeks to help them academically and to prepare them for high school. In the Tutoring Program, top academic students became involved in helping others to become academically advanced. The Leadership Program gave an Interact member a chance to feel like a leader. He/she was assigned ten freshmen who in turn went to their leader for academic or emotional support. The annual Thanksgiving and Christmas food drives were successful. Over $1,000 was raised to ensure happy holidays for 44 families. Fund raisers and sponsored dances brought in $450.00-$500.00 for buying food for needy families. Interact brought in professionals for Career Day. On April 3, students went to respective classrooms where a person from their hopeful career gave them information about salaries and a viewpoint on the career. Interact supported inmates from Medarville who told Interact and SADD members about their alcohol and drug abuse experiences.

"The international Weekend is a unique opportunity for students of Wheatfield and DeMotte to get a chance to meet and exchange ideas with students all over the world."—Mr. Hughes

Without a doubt, the International Weekend was the most valuable program Interact sponsored. Students from foreign countries were invited to K.V. to exchange ideas. It was a wonderful opportunity for students to learn about people and hobbies of foreign lands. At the end of October, student coordinator, Chuck Widner began the preparations for International Weekend. Letters were sent out to schools in the surrounding area to find out where exchange students were staying. The exchange students received letters personally asking them to be a part of our International Weekend. As a result, 21 exchange students from such countries as: Uruguay, Japan, Norway, Sweden, France, Spain, and the Philippines, spent the weekend of February 19-February 21 at K.V. Upon their arrival, the exchange students were introduced to their hosts. Afterwards a pizza party was held at Bagmans. Friday at school exchange students were introduced to the faculty in the morning and spent the rest of the day in classrooms talking and answering questions from the students. They were invited to the game and the dance in their honor later that night. A breakfast was held at LaPatkins Saturday morning before their departure at noon. Kankakee Valley enjoyed its fourth International Weekend. With its largest number of students, it was "easily the most successful," stated Mr. Hughes.

Anxious to meet their hosts, Washington Rodriguez (Uruguay) and Jarlie Sorlie (Norway) walk around in the library upon their arrival at K.V.H.S.

Everyone was curious about the exchange students. Here, Michele Smith encourages Lotta Nyblad to talk to the class about Sweden.

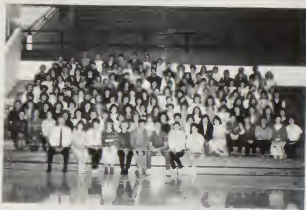

At the pizza party, Ann Takacs takes time out with Misaki Ishihara to learn about Japan and the Japanese culture.

Giving the Norwegian student Jorunn Rekdal and Finland student Annette Loukonen buttons and stickers from K.V. was one of the easier tasks Chuck Widner had done to make International Weekend a success.

Mirage Oasis

Depth of Our Dreams in Mirage

Only the second year of production and the Mirage had a very successful one. They published a quality magazine that sold all 150 copies in two days. This was partially due to the wonderful material submitted by all of the high school students. It was a hard decision, but they awarded the poetry award to "The Tear" by Dana Cowgill and the prose award to "The Legend of Cowgill and Cat Doing a Dirty One" by Atlanta Sutton. Co-Managing Editor Tina Herubin commented "All in all, I believe that the quality of Mirage has improved greatly."

Last year, when the magazine was submitted to a contest, it won the Prose Award and the award for the best illustrations. Co-Managing Editor Paula Hershman said, "With the illustrations and the prose pieces we have this year, we should win those awards again."

The staff worked hard and was very dedicated. During the final production of the magazine they had three meetings a week and the attendance was good at all of them. Staffer Aimee Beck commented "Without the dedication of the staff and Miss Jenkins, Mirage would not be possible." Another thing that contributed to the good work done on the magazine was 'the waxer.' With the profits from last year's candy sales, a waxer was purchased.

A new advertising technique used by Mirage was the use of cartoon figures on the English hallway wall. These figures included Bill the Cat, Opus, and Garfield, who were the brunt of many jokes in between classes. A few of the students were fascinated by these lifelike pictures and brought in cameras to have their picture taken by the palm tree where Bill the Cat lazed, waiting for the fish to nibble, so they could send an original photo to their brothers and sisters that are in college.

NHS Inducts 22 During Candlelight Ceremony

National Honor Society (NHS), one of the most respected clubs at Kankakee Valley High School was set up to honor students who excel in school and extra-curricular activities.

To become a member of National Honor Society, a student must earn a 3.7 grade point average or higher and be in at least two extra-curricular activities. In step two of the process, teachers complete a voting sheet which covers the areas of character, leadership, scholarship, and service. Each inductee must receive three out of four in each of these areas to qualify for membership in NHS.

Kankakee Valley's National Honor Society held its annual induction of new members at a special candle-light ceremony on April 22. There were 22 new members. Students, parents, and close friends were welcomed by Mrs. Dee Fritch the NHS sponsor. She introduced the officers: President, Shelly Kaluf; Vice-President, Starla Eenigenburg; Secretary, Piper Atkins; and Treasurer,

"It's a great honor to be chosen as an NHS member, because of the strict requirements for membership. NHS is an organization of true leaders," Shelly Kaluf, President.

Harry Brockus. New inductees were presented with a pin and certificate and seniors received their cowls for graduation. Closing remarks were given by Mr. Rich McEwan, who talked about how these students will excel, not only in school, but also in life itself. He wished the seniors good luck and challenged them to go beyond a high school education. A reception followed in the cafeteria.

New inductees were seniors: Todd Ailes, Jim Belstra, Julie Hessling, Mike Kooistra, Scott Kooistra, and Juniors: Lori Fagen, Amy Hart, Jill Kooistra, Kristi Walstra. Also inducted were sophomores: Jennifer Daugherty, Kim Gudorf, Wendy Hamstra, Paula Hershman, Tina Herubin, Brad Kingma, John Mathis, Craig Nagdeman, Craig Robinson, Justin Steiner, Joy Stepanek, Atlanta Sutton, and Jennifer Wiggs.

Junior Harry Brockus imparts his feelings about the importance of leadership to an NHS member.

Character, Scholarship, Knowledge, Leadership and Service are the topics of concentration for seniors Shelly Kaluf, Starla Eenigenburg, Harry Brockus and Piper Atkins.

Spirit Rocks

Newspaper Reflects Changing Times; Attitudes

For 180 days the pressures of deadlines and commitments haunted the 19 member SPIRIT staff. With a ratio of 47 to one, members of the staff took a personal approach to covering the news of Kankakee Valley. Whether you were a concert junkie, a music groupie, a fashionable yuppie, or an athletic contender, THE SPIRIT had an article for you.

Highlights of the year included Tracee Shepherd's personal interview story on the rising number of teenage pregnancies, Paula Falbo's editorial entitled "Stop Mourning the Failures", and Jim Bailey's exceptional editorial cartoons concerning Veterans Day, The Spirit of Christmas and "No Light to See regarding the lack of lighting in the high school auditorium. No summary of the year would be complete without mentioning the creative and controversial sports page team of Sawyer, Tillema, Motyka, Hurst, and Kelly. Their inside news often kept them checking the laws as they scrambled for legal support in their coverage decisions. On the lighter side, the dexterity of Kim Kerkes kept the old copier running despite sabotage by the rubber cement marauder and thanks to Susan Smith the tummies were filled with chocolate chip morsels. Newcomers Kim Henke, Joy Bryom and Julie Beckman were never quite sure what was going to happen when senior Ryan Bult flew into the room under the auspicious eyes of Mrs. Crosby. Levy was an essential element provided by senior Mary Ellen Beata and junior Jill Williamson. For juniors Tracee Gildersleeve and Kelly Kennedy it was all rubber cement and deadlines as they applied their second year knowledge to layouts. Kelly also served as the first paid KV POST correspondent with a weekly column entitled KELLY'S KLASSMATES.

Application of knowledge was important to Julie Sawyer who earned an award for outstanding news story at Indiana University's two week summer journalism workshop. Joining Julie at camp was editor Paula Falbo. In October Mary Jo Lowry, Julie Sawyer, and Kelly Kennedy piled in Mrs. Crosby's car for a 300 mile trip to the Indiana High School Press Association Conference in Frankfort, Indiana. Although the representatives did not bring home any awards, they did get to meet Mr. Bowen, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare who encouraged them to take a responsible stand in their publication on teen pregnancy and drug usage. They were also informed that due to pressure from the IHSPA, the IHSA would allow one student photographer from each school a photo pass for post season action. Due to illness the trip to the National Journalism Conference in Chicago was cancelled.

Late Tuesday nights, pizza on the run, rubber cement wars, lost copy, broken headlines rulers, and jammed copiers all led to the excitement and frustration of the young journalist. To lessen the burden, a new quieter and more efficient copier was purchased in March. This purchase required the sale of an additional 12,000 candy bars which brought the yearly total to 22,000 for the Quill and Scroll Fund Raiser. In that same month, the staff began using the PRINTSHOP computer program to streamline their headlines. In April, the rejected editorial policy was resubmitted to the school board along with a proposal to buy computers for the journalism room. In May, the 15th and final issue of THE SPIRIT rolled off the copier. For the first time in five years, the issue did not include the last wills and testaments of the senior class. Due to libelous innuendos submitted by some members of the Class of '86, the decision was made to strike the wills from the paper. In their place the staff chose to run academic highlights of the Class of '87 and to retain the popular 'Outstanding Senior' spread. With over 4,000 newspapers in the hands of their peers, Volume VIII ceased publication.

Reaching OUT

OEA Combines Business With Fun at Regionals

Office Education Association (OEA) Chapter focuses its attention on skills such as typing and shorthand. Members also put emphasis on the area of business relations. Sixty members attended meetings throughout the year in preparation for contests and annual activities. February 14th was not just another Valentine's Day. It was a day of hard work and competitions for 38 Office Education participants, 16 of whom qualified for State competitions on March 20.

It was there that four members qualified for Nationals. Their weekend was filled with many exciting events such as: a trip to Union Station, carriage rides around Indianapolis, and shopping in their spare time. All the members listened to a guest speaker who talked about the world's drug and alcohol problems. Friday evening videos were played and Saturday state participants boogied to a D.J. and celebrated the Office Education Association's 20th birthday. Members also elected new State officers for the 1987-88 school year. There were five voting delegates from Kankakee Valley. They were left with the decision of placing candidates in their appropriate positions. On the way home the four participants going to Nationals set their goals for victory. Piper Atkins, Bill Systma, Cindy Goth, and Carla Hittle looked forward to May 6-10 with hopes of accomplishing their goals. Cindy and Carla competed in the Employment Skills A, Piper in Information Processing Specialist I, and Bill in Extemporaneous Speech I. Nationals were held in Des Moines, Iowa.

OEA also held many fund raising events to earn money for State, Nationals, and other activities. Christmas gifts, chocolate bunnies and santas, and an assortment of candy were sold by many Office Education students during various times of the school year. A stuffed animal was presented to Tracy DeHaan, who was the top seller. She stated, "Selling $600.00 worth of fund raisers was a lot of hard work, but a great accomplishment for the entire club."

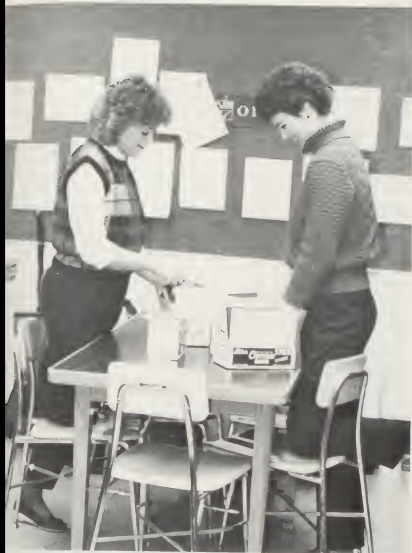

Leadership and activities were headed by Sponsor Mrs. Dee Fritch and the following officers: President, Piper Atkins; Vice-President, Tammy Dacus; Secretary, Christy Rose; Treasurer, Kim Misch; and Historian, Lauri Henrichs.

Reflecting God: Pathfinders

Pathfinders Praise The Lord In Song; Speech

Struggling through rough times, students turned to members of Pathfinders. A club that has good will and prayer, Pathfinders was one of the leaders in entertainment. Many guests came and performed songs, and talked about how they believe God has enriched their lives.

'Pathfinders' was first called K.V. Prayer and Share Club. For administrative reasons the name was changed to the Greek word Ichthus. In 1976, president of Pathfinders, Barry Mason thought of a word that meant good in all ways. It also refers to Path of followers, choosing the right path to God and finding one's self.

These evaluations determined whether the group would be invited to return. Guests were not paid for their performance. They were paid traveling expenses. Due to the constitution of Pathfinders, they were not allowed to have fund raisers. Finances come from the 50¢ club fee which was collected at the beginning of each year. Business Boom

Thespians reach out to children in "Patchwork".

"I'm glad the administration gave us a chance to try something and it worked. It was an experience for all of us, especially the new actors and actresses. I never knew how much talent K.V. students could have."

Mat Kremke

Sixteen dedicated Drama Club members rehearsed for five weeks, 2-21/2 hours a day, to present their production of the children's play "Patchwork" on November 19 and 20 to the DeMotte and Wheatfield Elementary schools.

"Patchwork" was comprised of many skits which taught children certain lessons that aided in maturity and in becoming a responsible adult. These lessons included "To each his own", "Advice", "The Choice" and others.

Although there was controversy between the Drama Club going to the elementary schools and the elementary students being bused to the high school, saying it would cost $900, the plays went well at the elementary schools. The theatre department gained $300 from going to the schools. The money was used for buying materials for the Spring Play.

Dramatists ease on down the road in The Wiz.

On April 3, 4, 10, and 11, 1,400 people 'eased on down the road' to THE WIZ which was directed by Mrs. Ann Krejsa with Mr. Bob Heid managing the lights, Mr. Adam Brennen in the Pit, Carol Keener on choreography and Miss Amy Nagel on vocals.

In Act I, Dorothy (Lisa Trinoskey) is at home with her Aunt Em (Twila Rossmanith) and Uncle Henry (Tim Shaffer) while a tornado rages to their farm. The Tornado Ballet performed by Laurie Odle, Piper Atkins, Jennifer Hancock, and Melanie Anderson swept Dorothy and Toto away to the land of the Munchkins where Angel Holloway, Kelly Kennedy, Marla Terborg, and Shelly Wilson greeted them. Addaperle (Michelle Profrock) the good witch of the North, appeared to show her magic tricks. Michelle's tricks were heightened by a flashy purple and red outfit and bubbling personality which ignited the entertainment level in the audience. Addaperle informed Dorothy on how to get to the Emerald City where the Wiz (Dave Arispe) reigned.

In a cornfield is where Dorothy encounters the Scarecrow (Kelly Smith). The Scarecrow tells Dorothy about his absence of knowledge. Dorothy feels sorry for him and offers to take him to the Emerald City to see if the Wiz can give him a brain. While walking down the Yellow Brick Road, the Tinman (Don Jarrell) stands stiffly awaiting someone to splash him a dash of oil. He's relieved by Dorothy and tells his story of how he becomes tin and is without a heart.

In a flash Dorothy and the Scarecrow smiled and offered to take the Tinman along to the Emerald City.

Down the road they heard a roar and out popped Mat Kremke strutting his false courage and trying to intimidate everyone. Saying they were afraid of the lion, the Scarecrow and Tinman were brushed aside as the lion captured center stage with his heart-wrenching story about not having any courage. He was practically in tears when he was asked to join the pilgrimage to see the Wiz.

Throughout their escapade to see the Wiz, they faced grueling monkeys and sleepy poppies for which the lion was taken away by the Field Mice (Paula Hershman and Jeni Wall). They approached the gate to the grand Emerald City and had to threaten to chop the gate down before the Gatekeeper (Angel Holloway) would let them in. Equipped with emerald green glasses, the characters waited impatiently to see the Wiz. After killing Evillene (Joy Stepanek), Dorothy leaves for Kansas in THE WIZ's balloon.

Walking through the woods on the way to see the Wiz can be a dangerous thing. Here, a winged monkey (Scott Post) digs his claws into the Scarecrow (Kelly Smith).

"I'll never memorize all these lines," states sophomore Lisa Trinoskey as she tries to capture her lead role as Dorothy in The Wiz. Due to her excellent voice, the performer was honored with the lead.

Fear captures the hearts of the citizens as Evillene (Joy Stepanek) terrorizes the cowardly lion (Mat Kremke) and Dorothy (Lisa Trinosky).

Miss Topsy Smith checks out the treat bag as Dorothy convinces her that Toto was nervous before her opening night too.

Theatre director Mrs. Krejsa gives the cowardly lion (Mat Kremke) a helping hand with his costume.

As Addopearl, Michell Proffrock brightens the audience with her outrageous sense of humor and her dazzling purple outfit. Munchkins Marla Terborg and Shelly Wilson are amazed at her psychic powers.

Sophomores Paula Hershman and Jennifer Wall, the "Mice" squad, arrested the cowardly lion who had been drugged by the poppy ladies. Munchkin Kelly Kennedy prepares for her twirling debut.

Joy Stepanek (Evillene), Kelly Smith (Scarecrow), Don Jarrell (Tinman), and Tammy Chase (Glinda), pose for a picture in between conversing with members of the audience after the final performance of 'The Wiz'.

Giving it his all, Dave Arispe (the Wiz) captures center stage for his K.V. performance.

Using her time wisely, Kelly Kennedy does a touch up on her hair before putting on her munchkin costume.

SADD Offers Haven for 335 On New Years

To make the students aware of drug and alcohol problems a new club was formed at KVHS. Sponsor, Mrs. Pat Price got the club underway and made it strong for the years to come. The organization consists of about 150 members with the leadership under the following officers: President, Amy Serhal; Vice-President, Tracey Gildersleeve; Secretary/Treasurer, Rhonda Hart; and Public Relations/Historian, John Price.

First activity occurred New Year's Eve was the Lock-In. Students bought tickets for $5.00 before the event. Everyone had to be checked in by 10:00 p.m. on December 31. There was a wide variety of activities to pursue throughout the night. Movies, basketball, and swimming were just a few choices one could make. Sleep was the last thing on everyone's mind, but sooner or later people crashed with their sleeping bags and teddy bears. TNT donated their services until the wee hours of the morning. Rowdy students consumed 900 liters of pop, 80 pizzas, 2 cases of nachos, and over 300 breakfast rolls. Students were released at 6:00 a.m. on January 1, 1987. Twenty-five chaperones attended the lock-in to make sure everything went properly. Although they were the ones who cleaned up and had the least sleep, many had a wonderful time. Parents felt secure knowing their son or daughter was safe at the activity. Money left over from the lock-in was saved to help four students attend the Indiana Teen Institute which cost about $700.00 "Because of the great success of the lock-in, I am planning to have another one next year even bigger and better." stated Price.

Another event occurred in February. Prisoners from the Medaryville Youth Camp came to talk to SADD and interact members. Many told their stories which were all related to drugs and alcohol. Comments from the students made it clear that they weren't aware of the consequences from drug and alcohol abuse. Carla Little commented, "I think the presentation was very inspiring and I hope that people learned from it."

Students were also able to learn the implications of drugs and alcohol by observing the posters that were displayed in the halls from April 27-May 1. The poster contest which awarded first prize to Shannon Kohlman, Second prize to Ann Takacs, and third prize to Troy Pendergrass along with honorable mention to Kim Meppelink, Mark Warran, and Andrea Wireman, was established in an effort to further stimulate the minds of the student body prior to the annual prom activities. Finally to end the year on a cheerful note, an all school dance was put on by members of SADD. Students hopped and bopped to the sounds of Bon Jovi and 38 Special to unwind after completing another year of high school.

Seniors, Dan Bradner, Ron Belstra, Steve Bliss, and Jim Belstra party down to the music of TNT at the lock-in, while Saphamore Sean Kastelnik looks on.

Freshmen Val Fose and John Ceglarek enjoy bringing in the new year together at the annual Lock-In sponsored by SADD.

HOT and SADD joined to make the students aware of the pressures dealing with drug and alcohol abuse. Medaryville Youth Camp prisoners assisted in this project by telling their stories about drugs.

Science Magic

It's Alive: Science's Future

After an initial sign up of 96 members the Science Club only has 30 active students who with their sponsor, Mr. Heid, put together another successful Science Fair. The February 26 event included the Elementary, middle and high schools.

Approximately 80 entries were received from all age groups with subjects varying from strobe lights, generators, and plants to killing bacteria.

Science Fair was made possible partly by the $200.00 that was raised by club members who sold Christmas cards, stationaries, candles and picture frames.

At 5:00 the judging began. For over an hour the participants tried to decide who would receive the First place prize. Many students hoped their entry would catch the judges' eyes. Juniors Lori Fagen and Lisa Webster received First Prize with their entry on "Which mouthwash kills the most germs" Some people were surprised to find out that Scope killed the most germs. Lisa and Lori didn't let the commercials fool them. They found out for themselves and won a prize for their research.

They took a variety of samples from three students mouths and let the bacteria grow for a week. Then they tested each one with the three sample mouthwashes and then counted their results. Out of the three mouthwashes, Scope showed the least number of germs.

After the judging took place, Science Club members put on a Chemistry Magic show to entertain the crowd while the judges computed the results of all the entries.

Club sponsor, Mr. Heid has been instrumental in bringing new equipment to the Science lab. Through the use of computers and lasers, club members have been encouraged to experiment in the world of Science.

The two happy smiles of juniors Lisa Webster and Lori Fagen reflect what they feel after receiving the news of winning 1st place at the annual Science Fair.

Intellect Used For Computers; Home Games.

On Monday afternoons, instead of driving home with their radios turned up to ear-ringing decibels, Computer Club members were found in the computer room working on programs that tested their skills.

Computer Club wasn't just for "intellectuals". It was designed for people who want to rise above the average person in our technologically advancing world. Brainwork was required to play survival, adventure, and fantasy games on the computer.

Computer Club sponsored a "Heart to Heart" dance on February 27. The entire school was encouraged to fill out a questionnaire which asked questions about hobbies and persona. Fun was the name of the game as dancers jived to the beat with one of their

A Game-a-thon was held during Christmas break. Simulations members spent a weekend at President, Pat Kremke's house for two days and nights full of game-playing strategy. The winner of the Game-a-thon was Ken Greer.

Looking over possible subjects for discussion, Simulations/Computer president Mat Kremke chooses a topic which will inspire the clubs.

Spreading Cheer

Sunshine Members' Efforts Benefit Community

Change was the word that best described the Sunshine Society. During the summer four of the six officers attended a summer camp in Brookston, Indiana, where directors taught the girls how to improve their club and have fun at the same time. One idea which was generated by the conference was the Sunshine circles. Officers organized the 170 members into groups of 25 and 30 girls. Points were kept for every activity attended by each member. Another change was the restriction put upon the Christmas dance. Each attending member must have completed a minimum of eight points in order to attend the event.

A new idea was brought up in October. Instead of having a Halloween party for the girls, the society decided to open it up to the public. Children ages three to nine went to the cafeteria for candy, fun, and games. Senior Diane Tillema commented, "My little brother seemed to enjoy himself. He was playing games and eating lots of candy." After the trick-or-treaters left, the Sunshiners enjoyed games and food. Costume judging ended the evening.

Sunshine Society's fund raiser was held the second week in November. Along with cheese and sausage, many new items were added to the brochure. The society accomplished $3,610.00 in sales which went to the dance.

Daddy Date Night was changed. Officers decided to have a meal in place of just desserts. All the dads were happy to have a dinner, which filled their hearty appetites. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Doris Myers, who ended the evening by analyzing the handwriting of the various members and their fathers. Many similarities

March brought about the annual Mother/Daughter Salad Bar. Color analysis was provided by Lisa Caldanaro for entertainment.

Another major activity was held on April 23. The evening was decorated in spring colors to achieve a cheerful atmosphere. Initiation of officers for the 1987-88 school year was conducted. Sunshine members met their Ideal Ladies and exchanged gifts.

Sunshine Society has dues of $4.00 for old members and $5.00 for new. Their motto is "Others" which represents how the club pulls together to meet new people and help others. Kristi Slaby was joined by Kathy Eckert as the club sponsors. President, Dee Bailey; Vice-President, Tracy Ailes; Secretary, Jodi Nemeth; Treasurer, Jennifer Perry; and Historians, Angel Holloway and Tracee Shephard.

Sunshiners transformed the cafeteria into a Christmas atmosphere the morning of the dance. Doughnuts and juice were served to girls who put in a hard morning's work.

Something New

Yearbook Staff tries something new for '86-'87.

"The ladder stared us in the face, the 50 page pamphlet weighed one-hundred pounds and Mrs. Crosby never stopped talking that first day of yearbook. I never thought that the twelve students sitting around me could do it, but then again I've been wrong before," stated Laura Molchan as she ambled from class August 24. In the next 30 days the last hour of school was a total nightmare as Mrs. Crosby threw term after term at the staff and expected them to not only know but apply them within the allotted time. There was no where to hide. Four thousand dollars in ad sales did not satisfy business manager Alta Williams as she encouraged the staff to get out there and sell 3,000 candy bars and yearbooks as well. Last year's books finally arrived and staff lunches for the next week were nonexistent. Yet, everywhere there was an activity, there seemed to be a yearbook staffer striving to record the event for posterity. Senior picture sittings ended in October. Lovaska Studios set up on September 5 and shot about 700 students in less than six hours. On October 9 the club pictures were the rage as students fought for the "right" to be in a club picture.

As Christmas approached Editor Julie Hessling reminded us that we were a staff—a family and that we should strive to help one another in reaching our goal—192 pages of greatness. This theme haunted our staff as Julie applied her summer journalism camp experience and her Franklin College seminar information to work on the staff.

Being young allowed Julie to throw away fear and allow the Sports Staff to redesign the athletic section, the academic boys to recapture the wonder of computers in academics and to throw away the guidelines as Clubs chose a shadowed background in their work. Time after time the staff heard, "The object of this class

"The best thing about the '86-'87 Kougau Pride is the creativity brought on by the staff. I wanted to "modernize" the yearbook not only as a staff accomplishment, but for the students that make up K.V."

school instead of at the post office.

The next weeks were harsh. February 1 stared Julie, Mary Ellen Beata, Lori Fagen, Jennifer Perry, and Laura Molchan in the face. "That color section must be done or bad things will happen!" exclaimed Mrs. Crosby. The master had spoken. Everyone was on her toes for the next six weeks. The deadlines came one right after the other. With only four weeks of school remaining, a 68 page and two 16 page deadlines stared at us from the calendar which was quickly becoming a yellow maze. Without that daily reminder of Father Time, Mrs. Crosby says she'd go crazy. Sometimes, we thought she already was when she madly dashed a headline or caption which could hardly be read and said, "See how easy it is." Easy—no.

As the last week approached sweat poured from our faces from the early summer weather. Entering room 219 was hazardous. There was a mad dash to index all the pages and to complete the layouts we decided to do "at the end of the year." The yearbook staff was counting days, hours, minutes, and seconds. "I'm never going to get this Pathfinders layout done," griped Janet Bewick. We didn't think we'd ever get our layouts completed, but when May 28 rolled around, we were the happiest; most self-satisfied bunch you had ever seen!

Mass Media does not end at the end of the school year, five pages remained empty for Graduation and Senior Honors Night. Julie, Lori, Mary Ellen, and Tracee had to depart from their lounge chairs to complete the final deadline on June 8. Then, our 192 pages of excellence was completed.

"Oh chill out Mrs. Crosby," state ulcer builders Janet Bewick, Kelly Smith, Mot Kremke, Myles Debschow, Alta Williams, Julie Hessling and Tracee Shepherd.

Academic Editor Mot Kremke thinks of original captions for the History layout.

Highest Journalism honors are bestowed upon senior Quill and Scroll president Alta Williams at the annual Quill and Scroll banquet.

Although candy sales are slow, the perky athletics representatives Kelly Myers and Rhonda Hart delve into action at the end of a season.

Drawing rough layouts and searching for pictures with the best expression for the Club section becomes a hectic job for juniors Janet Bewick and Laura Malchan.

At least three staff photos were taken. Known to be outrageous, staffers took pictures on the bus with a fire axe, in a circle on the floor, in the Cave, on the stairs and even in a hole in the courtyard. Dedication Dedication is in the athletes; writers of K.V.

Athletes spend months to put themselves in top physical condition for their season. Journalist's hearts may not be pumping rapidly, but their minds are at work constantly to find just the right word or phrase to flow with their writing style.

Only special athletes and journalists receive notoriety in Varsity Club and Quill and Scroll. For the honor to be in Varsity Club, an athlete must participate in at least thirty-nine percent of the games, earn a letter, or score in Sectional competition. Journalists are chosen by sponsor Mrs. Crosby. To qualify for Quill and Scroll, a journalist must be in the top third of his class and do an outstanding job in journalism. Former Quill and Scroll members discuss each eligible student with Mrs. Crosby before making a final decision.

Varsity Club is led by Mr. Watts and officers: President Brent Jeffries, Vice President Jeff Swanson, Secretary Sean Kostelnik, and Treasurer Kelly Myers. Senior Varsity Club members challenged eight faculty members to a game of basketball. The seniors won when Brent Jeffries made a shot at the last two seconds of the game, making the score 92-90.

Four members that made up Quill and Scroll were Julie Hessling (Editor of Kougau Pride), Alta Williams (Management of the Kougau Pride), Tracy Gildersleeve (Sports Editor of "The Spirit"), and Rhonda Hart (Sports Editor for the Kougau Pride). A banquet was held on April 24 to induct new Quill and Scroll members. The banquet took place at Bridge Vu Theatre. Members of "The Spirit", "Mirage" and Yearbook staffs were invited to attend. Candy was sold to attain money for their dinner and viewing of "Showboat". In addition to Newspaper and Yearbook, members of Mirage, the award-winning literary magazine were honored. The magazine under the direction of Miss Jenkins consisted of 49 pages of creative writing. Miss Jenkins selected 6 students for the honor.

Lori Fagen recites the meaning of truth. Lori was presented as the Editor of the '88 Kougau Pride.

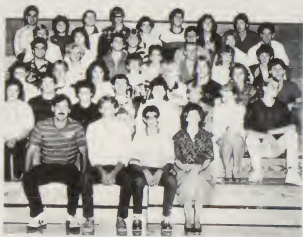

Quill and Scroll inductee Tracee Shephard lights the candle of Initiative at the Spring banquet honoring K.V.'s leading journalists. Senior Alta Williams, Master of Ceremonies, awaits the pledge.

It takes a little courage and a little self-control and some grim determination if you want to reach a goal. It takes a deal of striving and a firm and stern-set chin—no matter what the battle if you're really out to win. There's no easy path to glory; there's no rosy road to fame; life, however we may view it, is no simple little game.

But its prizes call for fighting, for endurance and for grit, for a rugged disposition and a "don't know when to quit."

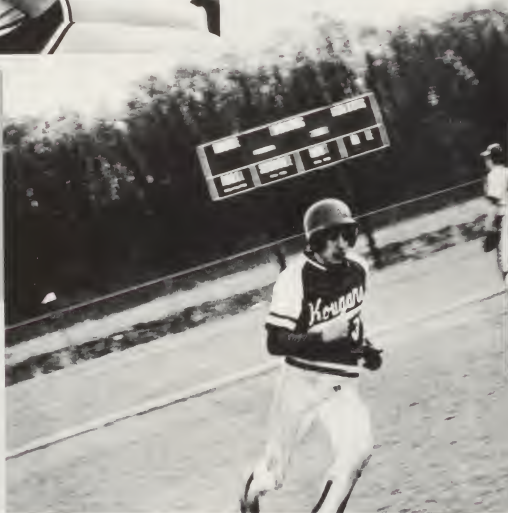

You must take a blow and give one, you must risk and you must lose, and expect that in the struggle you will suffer from a bruise.

But you mustn't wince or falter, if a task you once begin, be a Kougar and face the battle . . .

That's the only way to win.

Kougar Cheerleaders Urge School Spirit

Cheerleaders are athletes. Although, many fans and other athletes do not believe those two relate, because they are not out there competing, running, or sweating, they do work. For competitive athletes the practices began in August, but for the cheerleaders they started in July when they went to summer camp.

Cheerleaders took time away from their vacation to practice for and compete at camp. At camp they lived like a family. They spent four days and three nights together at V.U. At camp they set goals for the squad. Their goals were to move like clones, move alike, sound alike, look alike, and most importantly smile. At camp the varsity received two seconds, two thirds, and the spirit award. Out of 200 cheerleaders a second place individual spirit award was given to captain Tracey Hunter for the third consecutive year.

For Tracey Hunter camp was a lot of fun. She stated, "Imagine yourself jumping and yelling for four days straight. It may not sound like fun, but it is a blast meeting all the people from different teams."

After camp the girls began practice in August. They tried to get their cheers in unison. Although the cheerleaders do the same cheers for two seasons there was always more to be added and more to be learned. The hardest part of the season came when they began to learn their dance. The 1986-87 performance was done to "Congo". For this they practiced two hours a day, three days a week. The object of their dance was to find something that was interesting and eye-catching for a two and a half minute performance.

During this time many of the true blue qualities it takes to be a cheerleader were demonstrated.

Throughout the year cheerleaders were required to donate numerous hours, not only on the floor, but behind the scenes doing exercises and stretches which prepared them for their maneuvers. They also had to create spirit boosters for the teams, such as, posters, brownies, locker decorations, and pep sessions. Cheerleaders had to be happy, friendly, and always smiling because through the years the authentic cheerleader has been recognized as exactly that. After just one event, the cheerleaders were aware that cheering was more than just a short skirt on a cute girl.

In her first year as high school cheerleading coach, Miss Marcy Figel proved to be an outgoing coach. Those were "her" girls out there cheering and she taught them a lot of what they knew. She did not just sit back and watch.

During a football pep session, varsity cheerleader Tracey Hunter hits Coach Watts with a whip cream pie to get the students and players fired up for the sectional game against Knox.

LADY SPIKERS VOLLEY UPS; DOWNS

"Back in Black" was the motto for the 1986 Lady Kougars Spikers. The 1986 volleyball season was the beginning of a new learning experience as the Kougars were given a new coach, Kathy McKibben. They began their season on August 13 with practice twice a day.

Although there were many ups and downs, it proved to be the most successful season in the last ten years with a record of 16-8. After five games the record stood at 4-1, then two starting seniors were suspended by the Commissioner of the IHSA. Kelly Myers and Amy Serhal earned the four game suspension when they played in a volleyball tourney for their employer. To Kelly Myers the suspension left an indentation in her senior volleyball career. She was quoted as saying, "Being one of the captains, I felt I was letting the team down. However, at this point the team unity became stronger. I feel we all learned a lesson from this experience."

After this occurrence the team was 5-4, and they began learning the true benefit of having each other there to fill a spot or lend an ear. The return of Amy and Kelly to the court sparked the team. They felt they had a lot to prove to the competition. One of those schools was North Newton who they had been defeated by earlier in the season and who they would face at the North Newton tourney. Kougars spikers came back in black to defeat the Spartans in three games. After conquering the Spartans, the next quest was the sectionals. Kougars went into the sectionals as the underdogs, surprising the Bombers, who they defeated earlier in the season in two games. They were later conquered by the South Newton Rebels in an upsetting championship match.

According to Coach McKibben, "Success breeds success, I probably had more fun coaching this year even with all the different challenges we faced as a team." The Varsity team was led by three seniors and one sophomore. Young, but aggressive, Sandy Nemcek took the defensive trophy as she led in dig and serve reception. The best server and setter awards were given to tri-captain Nicki Barger. Kelly Myers led the team with most kills and received the best offensive player trophy. For the third year in a row Amy Serhal was given the mental attitude trophy. The 1986 Varsity team broke ten team records and six individual records. Change was also evident in the Junior Varsity squad which had to learn the routines of new Coach Gina Rhoda. Victories over Valpo and Crown Point were two of the outstanding games of the 16-5 season. The young Kougars were led by sophomores Denise Rossa and Darla Walstra and freshman Gina Walther. Denise was an all-around hustler as she led the team defensively, serving, and setting. Darla led the team in dig percentage, serve reception, and placed second in serving. The best offensive player award was given to Gina as she led the team with most kills and most blocks. Dianna Terborg received the most improved trophy.

'86 Kougar Gridder Individuals Set Pace

Change is not always best. According to Coach Watts, the '86 gridder team should have been the best in the conference. However, attitude, illness, injury and a lack of student support prompted the first losing season in a few years. When the season tally ends up on the negative, the scouts stop coming, the fans stop coming, and the team stops caring. Then, a star pops through and the whole process can be reversed in one play. In 1985 a 315 lbs. guard for the Chicago Bears fell on a ball in the end zone and became an overnight success. For Sophomore quarterback Craig Nagdeman, the glitter may not have been golden, but his record breaking North Judson game kept his name on coach's lips for weeks to come.

Outstanding performances were also shown by senior tri-captains, Brett Huber, Ron Klauer, and Jeff Swanson. Senior running back Brett Huber grabbed the attention of many fans by his hard work and determination. At midseason Brett averaged 5.2 yards per carry. Senior Ron Klauer broke the PAT record and led the Kougar team in defensive tackling. According to Coach Watts, Ron was a team leader, who contributed both offensively and defensively. Following right behind Ron in tackles was Senior offensive and defensive tackle Jeff Swanson. Swanson was a "tough guy" which he proved along the line to fellow senior friends who would chant "Swany" from the stands. Randy Denton, another attention grabber, was a Junior wide receiver. Before being injured he had six catches for 93 yards. Denton was allowed to return for sectional competition.

Another outstanding performance was also shown by Senior receiver Dave Garland who was at the other end of Nagdeman's passes. Until he was injured Dave was K.V.'s leading receiver. His injury came during the Griffith game when he was attempting to catch a slightly overthrown ball. After stretching for the extra yard, he was pulled down by a Griffith Panther and landed on his right arm. Dave spent the next three months in a cast. After suffering from a concussion Senior Todd Ailes left the playing field during the last game of sectionals. Todd wasn't really noticed until he was missed when he was no longer available to catch a pass or hold the ball for kicker Ron Klauer when he attempted a field goal or an extra point kick.

Finishing the season with a record of 5-6 the Kougars made improvements from beginning to end. Eleven men from the Kougar team played at one time on the field. Although they weren't all William Perry's, each contributed his own to the team. While the other gridder's played, there was a whole sideline of Kougar teammates cheering and advising them. At practice they hit each other hard. "You have to practice hard to play hard," stated Coach Watts who said he enjoyed coaching his team because he loves football and working with young people.

As the year progressed the talented team was headed by tri-captains Brett Huber, Ron Klauer, and Jeff Swanson. At the start of the season, the players voted on who they wanted to lead the team. These captains worked as the "middlemen" between the coaches and the players who supported their actions. The coaches of this years team were Mark Watts, head coach; Jim Lauritis, defensive coordinator; Frank Ginzer, who worked with quarterbacks, receivers and linebackers and Shaun McDowell, who worked on the specialty teams.

At the awards banquet trophies were presented to five of the Varsity players. Brett Huber received the Most Valuable Offensive Player and Andy Harper received the Most Valuable Player. Ron Klauer received the Most Tackles trophy and Brian Exton received Most Improved. The Kougar Pride Award, which is given to the player who was voted by his teammates to have the best attitude towards the game, was received by Todd Ailes.

The Junior Varsity team carried out the tradition of Kougar Pride by finishing out their season with a 4-3 record. The team traveled to other schools five out of the seven games they played. At the Fall awards banquet Jeff Martin received the Most Valuable Offensive Player and Chad Helton received the Most Valuable Defensive position.

The freshman football team finished their season 2-5-1. Awards were given to the following players in the respective categories; Rod Howard, Best Defensive Back; Bob Smith, Best Defensive Lineman; Joel Yoder, Best Offensive Lineman; and Shane Solomy, Best Offensive Back.

Cross Country Battles Odds In 9-0 Year

"Here comes the runner," split the serenity of the crisp autumn morning as photographers and timers jockeyed for position along the 3.1 mile course at Lemon Lake. Over the rise and through the final muddy stretch the runners came as teammates, parents, and coaches cried final final and warnings about sprinting competitors. Muscles strained as runners gave it that final kick to work seconds off their time. Precision was the key as arms and legs pummeled the sweating bodies into the victory shoot. Then silence as judges and fans waited the last runner. There were no boos, no pom poms, and no marching bands as the individual runners and team representatives received their awards. In an hour it was all over, and the run downs had begun. Saturday mornings, sunshine, mud, warm up, run downs, kicks, times, dedication and determination were all part of the 9-0 Cross Country season.

Throughout the season, they teamed up to improve from one meet to the next. By using their determination and dedication all of their hard work and sweat paid off for both the boys and the girls teams. Both teams placed fifth in semi-state with senior John Van Soest and freshman Celeste Susnis taking top honors. Advancing to state competition, John Van Soest suffered fallen arches and placed forty-eighth. Celeste placed second in her first effort of state-wide competition. According to the POST TRIBUNE Celeste was capturing the hearts of all. Celeste also had many other outstanding performances throughout the season. She placed first in all the meets except when she was sick with the flu.

Although the season was outstanding, it was not perfect. Like with all good things in life you have a few set-backs. One such problem was the many injuries suffered by the team members. One injury occurred during Sectionals when senior Myles Debshaw who had just run one of his best times ever began having pains in his leg. These pains were the result of a stress fracture. Another such hindrance halted senior John Van Soest who after finishing first in Semi-state, went on to state suffering from fallen arches. Because of this injury, John placed forty-eighth out of the top runners in the state. For runner Myles Debshaw it could only be a dream to be running at state again this year.

Consisting of many fine runners, the All Conference honors were given to John Van Soest, Steve Hoffman, Sean Kostelnik, and Mike Liss. For All Conference Kankakee Valley also had three runners honorable mention, they were Myles Debshaw, Dieter Markland and Ron Belstra.

At the fall Awards Banquet, John Van Soest received Most Valuable Runner and Team Captain. The Mental Attitude Award was given to Sean Kostelnik and Rookie of the Year to another sophomore Dieter Markland. For the girls, Celeste Susnis was awarded with Most Valuable Runner and Team Captain was Lori Fagen. The Mental Attitude Award was received by Rhonda Mabie and Rookie of the Year was earned by Char Sytsma. Head Coach was Walt Prochno.

Pleased with the outcome of the race, Myles Debshaw shows a smile but later found he had a stress fracture following the sectional meet.

"No pain, no gain" runs through Senior John Van Soest's head as he struggles with the Lafayette Jeff, runner for the second place during the last 200 yards of the race.

Despite Weak Bench, Wrestlers Prosper

"Lift up your head," "Get his shoulders down," and "hook his leg" are just a few of the cheers heard from the wrestling fans as they watched a son, a relative, a boyfriend, or a friend work strenuously to pin an opponent. Kougars matmen trained vigorously for two and a half hours a day during the week and attained their peak each weekend during matches.

The wrestling team finished its season with a record of 14-6. At the conference meet the Kougars grapplers placed fourth by one point. They finished conference with a 2-3 record. Coach Prochno said, "We had to overcome a lot this year. There were kids who did not come out and we had a lot of kids who quit the program before the season started. I told my team that if they did what I asked we would be successful."

Many grapplers finished the season with outstanding individual accomplishments. Conference winners were Todd Tilev, Kevin De Young, Mike Rhoades, and Jeff Swanson. In the Merrillville Tournament, the Kougars matmen placed eighth. Three individuals received third places: Kevin De Young, Ron Klauer and Jeff Swanson. Sectional champions were seniors Kevin De Young and Jeff Swanson and sophomore Todd Tilev. Other regional qualifiers were Mike Rhoades, Von Malia, Tim Howard and Ron Klauer.

Kevin ended his high school wrestling career on a good note with a season record of 27-6. He advanced all the way to semi-state where he lost his first match in the 145 weight class. Jeff, a rookie, finished his season 23-9. Jeff also advanced to semi-state in the heavyweight class where he won his first match but was defeated in his second match when he faced the eventual semi-state champion and state champ. 119 pound Todd finished with a 27-1 record. Mike from the 155 pound weight class had a record of 24-4. Van earned a record of 13-10 in the 177 pound class. Tim from the 167 pound weight class finished with a 18-9 record while 185 pound Ron, who finished fourth in regionals, ended his season with a record of 22-10.

Special awards were presented at the Winter Athletic Banquet to four of the Kougars grapplers. Freshman Rod Howard received the Rookie of the Year trophy. Junior Mike Rhoades received the Most Improved trophy. The Most Valuable wrestler was Kevin Deyoung. Co-captains which were picked by the team and Coach Prochno at the beginning of the season were Ron Klauer and Kevin DeYoung.

87 Kougar Swimmers' Struggles Contradict

In its second year, the girls swim team chalked up three victories and numerous individual awards. Six records were broken by individuals. Angie Brown broke the 200 Individual Medley. Tonya Stepp broke the 100 Breast Stroke and Tonja Parker broke the 100 freestyle. Also, the 100 Butterfly record was broken by Kelly Walleske and the 200 Medley Relay was broken by Val Ptacek, Tonya Stepp and Donna Gluth also broke the diving record. Even with these achievements the Lady Kougars' size and the lack of interest were major hindrances. The tankers finished with a record of 3-6. Their size aided their losses by keeping them from filling all the competition categories. When asked how she felt being a first year coach Mrs. Slaby stated, "The position has proven to be very challenging for the team members and for myself. They have adapted to my expectations and they have learned different methods of achieving goals."

At the Fall Awards Banquet awards were given out to the individual outstanding swimmers. Sophomore Donna Gluth received the Most Valuable Diver award. Captains Angie Brown and April Vandermolen received trophies for their tremendous leadership. Angie also received the award for the Most Valuable Swimmer and Jill Kooistra received the Most Improved trophy.

Size and a lack of interest were minor problems for the boy swimmers, when they and Coach Lauritis came to the school to practice over Christmas break they saw that someone had pulled a swift trick and drained the pool. Without water the Kougar strokers could not practice. Another problem for the boy swimmers was inexperience.

They only had one senior to fulfill the leadership role. Even with all these problems they still finished with a winning 8-6 record. The Kougar strokers finished fifth out of five teams at the Kankakee Valley Invitational. At the Winter Awards Banquet. Solo senior Rich Murchek received the Most Valuable Swimmer award and the Most Points award. Junior Rob Bierma received the Most Improved award.

Height Robs Cagers of Victorious Season

"Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising everytime we fall."

Oliver Goldsmith

These words of wisdom would accurately describe the 1986-87 Varsity girls basketball team. Lacking in height and experience, the varsity team had a lot to overcome. Through some tough losses like the overtime loss to North Newton and replenishing victories like the River Forest conference game, errors were corrected by the girls and the coach.

Coach Orsburn realized after an overtime loss to North Newton that the different defenses and presses were not appropriate for his girls. He saw that his girls should stick with their 1-2-2 press and the slant defense in order to obtain victory. Work and victory were synonymous as the team practiced two and a half hours every night except Wednesday on which they could only practice two hours. They came in every morning for freethrows, and practiced on Saturdays for three hours or more. They definitely worked. By the end of the season the girls had learned a lot, a lot about basketball and each other. Finishing their chronicle 8-10 the girls may not have been the best team around, but they had learned something. At the winter awards banquet Coach Orsburn presented his seniors with a plaque of appreciation for their four years of dedication in basketball. Senior Nicki Barger was presented with most points and best freethrow percentage. Senior Amy Serhal was awarded with the best defensive player and most rebounds. Junior point guard Cami Wiers was awarded with most assists. Cami Wiers took a look at the season by stating, "It was challenging and a lot of fun. The season was filled with lots of new experiences."

For the Junior Varsity team the season was full of success. They finished the season with a record of 14-2 and the Lowell Tourney title which Kankakee Valley has held for four consecutive years. This team consisted of three sophomores and six freshmen. Their two losses came at the hands of an excellent Benton Central team and an undefeated Boone Grove team.

Changes Set Pace For Hoopsters Season

Changes were at the top of the list for the 1986-87 Varsity boys basketball team who finished with a chronicle of 8-13. The Kougars team was faced with a challenging new coach, Jerry Hoover. In June Hoover returned to K.V. after a twenty year absence. In the middle of September the challenge began when the players started their conditioning. For one month the cagers ran, lifted weights, and learned new defenses without touching a basketball. During this thirty day period Coach Hoover taught "his" boys the basic fundamentals of basketball.

When their season opened on November 25, at the annual Turkey Tourney the boys nor the coach knew what to expect. Losing the opener and the next six games was not easy. Each game at least one starter was on the injured list or ill. After twelve games, the ball began bouncing on the Kougars side of the court. Winning three conference games in a row boasted the teams morale as they pointed to the conference flag and cried "Victory". At the end of five with a 5-0 record the conference title was theirs. In March, the red hot Kougars dashed out a strong lead in the first quarter of the sectionals against Hebron. However the Hawks swooped down during the last quarter and knocked the '87 Kougars to the ground. Another year of challenges was over. Throughout the games junior Troy Pendergrass stole the show as he captured the hopes of the audience for an '88 career.

At the Winter awards banquet senior Dave Brown received Best free throw and field goal percentage along with leading rebounder. Senior Brent Jeffries was awarded most assists and junior Troy Pendergrass received most steals. Junior Bill Systma received most charges. The Harvey Kampenga Mental Attitude award was earned by Todd Galloway. Conference honors were given to Dave Brown and Troy Pendergrass, honorable mention was given to Tim Lorenzen.

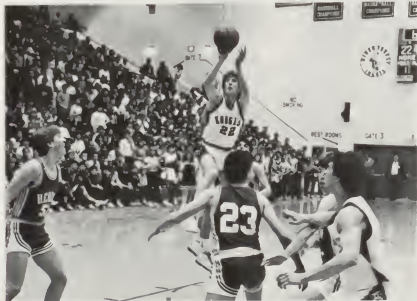

The Junior Varsity basketball team suffered through a 7-13 campaign. Highlights of the season included a twenty point victory over Highland, and a thirty point win over North Judson, other victories were recorded over Kouts, River Forest, South Newton, and Hebron.

Even though the team won only seven games, experience playing in front of large crowds against good competition helped each player prepare for a varsity position next year.

At the Winter awards banquet sophomore Gary Van Kley received best field goal and free throw percentage. Leading rebounder was sophomore Bob Stanton and sophomore Craig Nagdeman earned most assists.

The freshman boys finished their season with a record of 8-11. Playing on the freshman team gave the boys a chance to see how high school basketball differs from middle school basketball.

Up, up, and away goes Brent Jeffries as Kougars teammate Dave Brown looks on to the basket.

Being pressured by a Hebron Hawk power forward Robb Walstra adds two to the Kougars scoreboard.

Unity: Individuality Net Victory In Track

Nineteen boys made up the boys track team. Every person performed up to his seeded position. Beginning practice in February, the boy tracksters practiced from 3:30 to 5:30 every weekday. Practices varied depending on what needed improvement. Coach Prochno stated, "With 15 different events, practices consisted of a whole lot of different things at different times." The Kougars strength laid within the 400m, 800m, 1600m, and 3200m. While Coach Prochno worked with the distance runners, assistant Coach Roberts took charge of the sprinters and the field events.

As a team the 1987 Kougars finished with a 6-5 record. They placed 3rd in conference.

The team sparked with individual accomplishment. Senior John Van Soest was conference champ in the 400m, 800m, and 3200m. In the 400m John set a new conference record with a time of 50.6 seconds. John placed third in the mile and fifth in the two mile during Regionals.

Special awards were given to four boys at the Spring Athletic Awards Banquet. Sophomore Tom Liffick received the Most Valuable Field Event trophy. Rookie of the Year was received by Steve Cherry, while John Van Soest received the captain, the Most Valuable Runner, and the Most Dedicated Award.

"Ooga Booga K.V. Koogas, Kougars Pride 8-2." The Lady Kougars would form a huddle at the completion of every meet to yell this chant and show that even though track is known as an individual sport, everyone had to work together to be successful. The girls worked together from 3:30 to 5:30, starting in January and ending in May, every weekday except Wednesday when they worked until 5:00. Head Coach Paula Wellmaker and Assistant Coach Tanya Price displayed the importance of unity to the girls as they had all the girls train together by alternating practices between sprints and distance to improve a distance runners' final kick and a sprinters' endurance. The 25 girls proved to themselves they could be a successful team without a large number of members.

The Lady Tracksters finished the 1987 season with a record of 8-2. Three individuals had extremely good seasons and placed in Sectionals. Junior Lisa Webster placed first in the shot put and second in the discus. Freshman Char Systma placed second in the 400m dash while her classmate Celeste Susnis left the track with a first in the two mile and first in the mile.

At the Spring Athletic Awards Banquet special honors were given to the following girls: Celeste Susnis—Most Valuable Runner, Lisa Webster—Most Valuable Field Event Person, Donna Gluth—Most Improved, Rhonda Mabie—Mental Attitude, and Sherri Smith—Honorary Captain.

Determination fills freshman Chantel Hendrix's face as she prepares to release the discus.

Golfers Break School Record With 164

The 1987 Kougar golfers were a swinging success. With 22 Kougars in play the team had one of the best and biggest teams ever in golf. The underclassmen led the way. First year golfer sophomore Barry Slager had an excellent season with five medalist honors. Two brothers, Scott and Sean McAttee were also a great benefit to the team acquiring three and one medalist honors respectively. The only two seniors on the team were Amy Serhal and Todd Ailes.

Golfers began their season by practicing in the high school gym balcony everyday after school. In the balcony they tried to get the basics down. They worked on putting and proper swing format. Before they could try their swing on the golf course, they had to pass a written test. This test involved the rules a golfer had to follow during a meet and other basics a player needed before competition. After the test, with the weather, on their side, the golfers headed for the course. On the golf course they practiced what they had been taught. Realizing golf is a tedious sport involving a lot of concentration, the golfers maintained the lowest score in 11 of 13 outings. They broke the low score record against Wheeler with a final score of 164.

The golfers finished with a season chronicle of 11-2. At the spring awards banquet, Coach Lauriat awarded freshman Steve Ganzeveld with the Most Valuable Junior Varsity Player and sophomore Barry Slager received Most Valuable Varsity Player. Also receiving awards were Jeremy Woolever for Rookie of the Year and Sean McAttee earned Most Improved.

Tucker Breaks Record With 8 Home Runs

Hit the ball over the fence and you can take your time going around the bases—

John W. Raper
For the 1987 varsity baseball players a spectator would have thought this philosophy by Raper was a constant thought. At the home opener for the Kougars senior Jon Myers and junior Troy

Pendergrass both were relished with the glory of a home run. For the Kougars these home runs were the beginning of a very challenging season. The seniors took their stand by breaking records. The home run record was broken by powerhouse hitter Brian Tucker, with 8 home runs. In their game against West Central the Kougars team had 4 home runs. Brent Jeffries didn't receive his glory for hitting home runs, but instead for running the bases. About mid-season Brent broke the record for the most stolen bases and was two shy of breaking most hits for a single season.

However, through all of this the team still struggled. The struggle began with the pitching staff. Although pitching was rather shallow, the Kougars put their best foot forward. The pitchers that led the team were seniors Brent Jeffries and Jeff Woolever. Also sharing the duties as pitcher were juniors Mark Orsburn and Robb Walstra, sophomore Dan Systma, and freshman Brad Recker. Freshman Brad Recker was starting short stop half way through the season when Troy Pendergrass suffered an injury. However, when Troy recovered, Brad had well earned his place at short stop. Another change was when senior outfielder Ron Klauer earned a starting position on third base after never having played infield in his high school career.

Individuals for the Kougars team were on a high, but as a team they had their ups and downs finishing the season with a record of 13-15. One down for the Kougars team was playing their first conference game in huge gusts of wind. The ball was said to have been carried by the wind from centerfield to foul territory. After this down the Kougars received an up by beating a state ranked Crown Point team. The season continued in this manner until it ended on the down side when the Kougars lost in the sectionals. The first year coach for the varsity was Mr. Orsburn and assistant coach was Mr. Daubenheyer.

For the junior varsity and freshman teams the season was much as it ought to have been, a learning experience. The freshmen only played three of its scheduled games. The others were jeopardized by weather and the other schools not having a team. However, the junior varsity had a great season of 10-3. During the season the junior varsity won their home tourney after making a nice come back against North Newton. The junior varsity and freshman teams were coached by Mr. McDowell.

At the spring awards banquet, the varsity Rookie of the Year was presented to Brad Recker and Best JV Player to Mike Buchanan. Also receiving awards were Brent Jeffries for Highest Batting Average, Jon Myers for Best Production Index, Brian Tucker for Most Homers, Kevin Whitaker for Best Defensive Player, and Brent Jeffries for Best Earned Run Average.

Following through on the swing and foul tip, senior Jeff Woolever recaptures his thoughts.

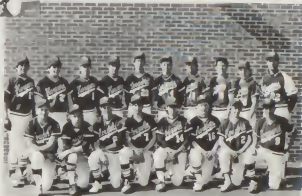

Looking toward the batter senior third baseman Ron Klauer anticipates the batters move.

After school jobs are essential to the monetary life of the 20th century teens. A job at McDonald's makes the difference between plain pocket and Guess jeans for senior Shelley Kaluf.

Money for

For Sale:

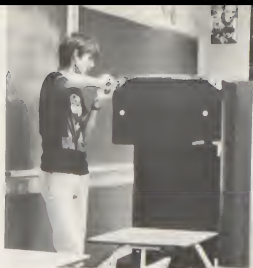

A 1970 school in the Valley. 45 rooms, very large kitchen and cafeteria, roomy gym, plenty of parking space. Good condition and reasonable. Call 956-3143.

"Prove it!", says Senior Mike Mackiewicz when told that he didn't have an official KVHS senior mug.

Nothing

Senior Mat Kremke busily counts out the exact change for his customers at Cinnabon, one of the many new stores in the mall.

Being an assistant is a lot more than just running errands. For Senior Myles Debshaw the job requires certain carpentry skills, including assembling Mrs. Crosby's new desk.

Sophomore Jodi Crane and Senior Nicole Scubelek busily count quarters, dimes, and nickels from the Quill & Scroll candy sale which netted $2,000.

Assistant Superintendent, Dr. Parker, Superintendent Webdell, and board members listen to the Journalism proposal on getting financial support for new equipment.

CONGRATULATIONS! CLASS OF '87"

THE PARABLE OF THE HOT DOG

*There was a man who lived by the side of the road.
And he sold Hot Dogs.*

He was hard of hearing so he had no radio. He had trouble with his eyes so he read no newspapers, nor did he watch television.

But he sold good Hot Dogs.

*He put signs on the highway telling how good they were. He stood on the side of the road and cried
"Buy a Hot Dog, Mister?" And people bought.
He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He finally got his son home from college to help him.*

But then, something happened . . .

His son said, "Father, haven't you been reading the newspapers? There's a big depression on. The European situation is terrible, the domestic situation is worse.

"Everything is going to pot."

Thereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he reads the newspapers, he listens to the radio, he watches the television and he ought to know." So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his advertising signs, and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his Hot Dogs.

And his Hot Dog sales fell almost overnight.

*"You're right, son," the father said to the boy.
We certainly are in the middle of a great depression.*

Creativity Dominates Kougar Pride As Hessling Reaches For Freedom

What a year this has been. Frustration was the theme of the staff the first few months of school. It seemed no matter how much we worked, nothing got done. Snow days added to our frustrations as we were snowed in at home while our uncompleted pages were at school. But have no fear, deadlines were met as staff members gave their all to produce the best book ever.

Lori and Mary Ellen did an outstanding job on the senior and life sections. They set the pace for the whole year-book by creating new and exciting ways to carry out the theme. Tracee came in second semester to lend a helping hand to Lori and Mary Ellen.

Myles, Mat, and Kelly have my utmost gratitude for breathing some life into the academic section. Their use of the computer graphics will probably be a trend setter.

The club section was the best it's ever been. Jennifer, Laura, and Janet outdid themselves on designing a layout that would minimize the size of the club photo—Thanks!

The mug section was improved by the hard work put into it by Nicole and Mary. Many a night Nicole was here trying to complete the student features which I had required.

Three cheers for Kelly and Rhonda for someone finally used a four column layout. The score boards and band-aids were great ideas too.

Alta didn't get any phone calls from bill collectors and created a fantastic advertising section by giving her all.

I along with the rest of the staff, am sure, would like to express the deepest amount of appreciation to our year-book representative, George Kingsley, for his help in designing a new Kougar Pride. May all your SPORTS ILLUSTRATED dreams come true. We would also like to thank Doris Myers for taking my interpretation of the theme and turning our cover into a masterpiece. And most of all we want to thank Mrs. Crosby. Who knows how she did it, but her crash course in layout and design paid off. Thanks for always coming up with great captions, headlines, copy and whatever else we needed.

Big thanks come in small packages is definitely of petite junior Tracee Shepherd. Tracee joined staff after first semester and added a lot of and creative ideas to the life section.

Senior Julie Hessling takes a quick breather between first semesters' 92 page deadline and second semesters' 100 page deadline frenzy. "You don't really appreciate the book until you do it yourself," stated the petite, perky senior.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1 million (Office of National Statistics 1999). The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 6.5 million by 2010, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 3.5 million (Office of National Statistics 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop services to meet the needs of older people, and a number of initiatives have been developed to address this need. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people. The strategy is based on three main principles: to improve the health and well-being of older people, to improve the quality of life of older people, and to improve the support and services available to older people.
